Rural Kaukauna Man Killed As Passenger Train Hits Car

LITTLE CHUTE — A fast-moving passenger train and a station wagon driven by a rural Kaukauna man collided at an intersection here Thursday night, killing the auto's lone occupant.

The accident, on Outagamie Trunk CC at the village's north limits, killed John L. Wurdinger, 42, route 1, Kaukauna. According to Outagamie County Deputy Coroner C. J. Schink, Wurdinger's 1957 station wagon was dragged one-half mile down the railroad tracks after it was struck in the side. Wurdinger, who died instantly of crushing chest injuries, was pinned in the wreckage.

Elmer Blackeslee of Fond du Lac, engineer on the Chicago and North Western passenger train, told authorities the train was traveling about 65 or 70 miles an hour at the time of the collision.

Little Chute Police Chief Robert Nechodom said the train was heading for Green Bay, having just left Appleton. The Wurdinger car was northbound on CC. Nechodom said that although the crossing is not marked by automatic signals, visibility is clear.

Blackeslee told authorities he could see the Wurdinger car approaching the crossing, and explained that he "applied the full emergency braking system." The front of the train was extensively damaged and was delayed about three hours until repairs could be made.

Wurdinger worked for Giddings and Lewis Machine Tool Co., Kaukauna. His body was released to the Greenwood Funeral Home, Kaukauna.

Eric A. Wurzinger, 18, route 2,

Elroy, was killed early today when his car went out of control on State 82, near Elroy, went off the road, and struck a driveway embankment. He became the state's 795th traffic fatality in 1967.

Rains Cause Flooding in City in N. Y.

SALAMANCA, N.Y. (AP) — The rain-swollen Allegany River appeared to level off today after spilling into this Southwestern New York area, flooding streets and roads in low-lying sections and causing other damage that brought about a state of emergency.

Two persons were reported missing in areas soaked by nearly five inches of rain since Wednesday afternoon.

About 50 families in this city of 8,500 fled from their homes. Numerous schools and business places in the area were closed. Telephone and electric power service was disrupted. A water line serving 120 families in nearby Killbuck was broken.

Residents Alerted
In Salamanca, Mayor Keith Reed declared a state of emergency Thursday night and alerted residents near the river to be ready for evacuation, as the Allegany climbed about a foot an hour.

Early today, however, the rate decreased and, in some sections, the river level appeared to remain constant.

Chester Halgas, a public health engineer, said he expected the river to crest at about 24 feet later today. That would be one foot below flood stage.

More rain, he said, would pose serious problems.

Positive Identification Awaits Crime Lab Tests; Victim's Head Is Found

The person whose body was found in pieces over the past four days in Appleton is George Schmidt, according to a tentative identification made today by investigating authorities. While Outagamie County Coroner Bernard H. Kemps said the State Crime Laboratory has yet to announce its conclusions, he was "satisfied" that the body was that of Schmidt, 82-year-old retired contractor who was believed to be missing from his home at 319 N. Division St. for more than a week.

Based on evidence found in the house, Appleton police are "working on the assumption" that the body was dissected in the house, according to Det. Lt. Robert Frailing.

Dist. Atty. Nick F. Schaefer said this morning that a search warrant, obtained late Wednesday night to search the home at 319 N. Division St., would be "made returned" to Outagamie County Judge Gustave Keller "some time today, probably this afternoon." Schaefer said the warrant would be accompanied by a list of evidence collected in the house. The list of items will be made a part of public record, Schaefer said.

He explained that state statute limits the search warrant's effectiveness to 48 hours. The warrant authorized authorities to search the basement, first floor, garage, garden and yard of the George Schmidt property.

Kemps said this morning that with the finding of a head and "about 60 pounds more of body parts" Thursday afternoon, he is satisfied authorities now "have a complete human body." He said no further search for body parts will be made. The search began about noon Monday when four boys found a sack containing toes and foot flesh on the playground at the old St. Joseph Catholic School.

Discovers Head
Police Insp. John V. Gosch found the head, wrapped in cloth and newspapers, as he was walking to the police station from 319 N. Division St. late Thursday afternoon. The head was on the ground between a quonset hut used as a garage at the northwest corner of The Post-Crescent parking lot, and a dry cleaning establishment to the immediate west.

Representatives of the State Crime Laboratory, who arrived here late Thursday morning — for the second time — found several more body parts under the yard at the Schmidt home, where local authorities had dug more than three hours early Thursday morning, after obtaining the search warrant.

Meanwhile, Schmidt's 80-year-old wife, Marie, remains in St. Elizabeth Hospital, reportedly still in "some form of shock," according to police. A detective remains in or near the room 24 hours a day, but authorities report it is not because the woman is being held. She was taken to the hospital by ambulance after four detectives who went to 319 N. Division St. with the search warrant about 1 a.m. Thursday found her sitting "in a daze" on the basement floor.

$1 Hike Likely In Medicare Fee

Monthly Premium Would be $4 for 'Voluntary' Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Social Security Commissioner Robert M. Ball predicts few elderly Americans will drop the voluntary doctor bill part of medicare if the monthly premium is raised to $4 from the present $3. Ball indicated he believes most Americans 65 and older could pay the increase from a proposed minimum $6 increase in monthly Social Security benefits, now pending in Congress.

Spokesmen for one organization of older people differed with Ball.

But the commissioner, noting the government adds $3 to the participant's premium, said "whatever they're paying, it's worth twice as much."

"I just feel that people realize this is a very valuable program" and "would expect practically all to recognize that fact and continue."

Voluntary Plan
About 93 per cent of the almost 20 million people under medicare are signed up for the voluntary plan, which pays for doctors' fees.

John W. Gardner, secretary of health, education and welfare told the Senate Thursday that current incomplete figures indicate the rate might have to go up $1 a month.

The current premium would remain in effect until the end of next March, however, under a bill cleared by Congress Thursday.

The measure had been requested by the administration so the new rate could be announced by Dec. 31. More information will be available then on the first 18 months of the program and any benefits added by Congress can be taken into account.

A Preston, Ont., policeman listens to the screaming of 19-year-old Margaret Timbrell Thursday as he removes her 3-year-old foster sister, Valerie, extreme left. Behind Margaret is her mother, Mrs. Arthur Timbrell, who was arrested and charged with abduction after refusing to hand Valerie and her 5-year-old sister Peggy over to Children's Aid Society officials. Mrs. Timbrell, whose bid to adopt the sisters was rejected, wanted a written guarantee the children would be adopted separately. (AP Wirephoto)

Declares Disaster Area

LBJ Promises $2.5 Million For Counties on Rio Grande

HARLINGEN, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson, touring the flooded lower Rio Grande Valley Thursday, declared 24 sodden south Texas counties to be a major disaster area.

He allocated $2.5 million of special federal aid as a start — only half the amount the White House said, that Gov. John Connally requested.

As Johnson acted, Rio Grande floodwaters ravaged villages and pushed toward the twin cities of Brownsville and Matamoros. Houses and buildings in Arroyo City, a tiny fishing village 15 miles from Harlingen, toppled one by one into the swirling waters. Residents left the village before the danger.

News Conference
Convening an impromptu airport news conference here to announce the federal grant, which will be used to rebuild roads, bridges and other public facilities, Johnson said. "There wasn't a great deal I could do by personally coming here."

He said he made the trip "to let these people know that their government cares for them."

Johnson added he wanted victims of Hurricane Beulah and her ensuing floods to know "that we are a compassionate and understanding government and that in an hour of need we are there."

The chief executive hunkered down in his blue silk suit in cot-filled refugee centers to chat with Mexican-American mothers and their youngsters, extending a "Keep your chin up" message.

Rides in Bus
The President rode around Harlingen — where many of the streets looked like canals — in a yellow school bus.

Then he boarded a jet-powered helicopter and flew 70 miles over thousands of acres of flooded farmland to Rio Grande City on the Texas side of the Mexican border.

There he inspected an emergency hospital set up in a high school classroom and visited a temporary mess hall where he leaned on the tables to chat with refugees eating a supper of chili, corn, stringbeans, fruit salad, bread and butter and milk.

With the chief executive were two long-riding Texas Democrats — Connally and Sen. Ralph Yarborough, as well as Republican Sen. John Tower.

Wednesday Yarborough accused Connally of waiting too long to ask for federal disaster aid. The governor responded by calling the senator a "despicable man."

Johnson managed to get both men into the same bus and helicopter with him, and had public words of praise for each. "I'm happy," he said, "that these servants of the people still care about the people."

After his tour of the water- and wind-stricken valley, Johnson flew with Connally to his ranch near Johnson City for a weekend stay. Yarborough flew to San Antonio.

Killed in Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department announced Thursday that Marine Lance Cpl. Carl W. Leiden of Milwaukee had been killed in action in Vietnam.

Key Outpost

U.S. Has Good Reasons For Holding Con Thien

WASHINGTON (AP) — Communist North Vietnamese troops cannot come across the border zone to South Vietnam in force as long as U.S. troops hold two key strong points, Pentagon sources say.

This is cited as a chief reason for U.S. Marines to remain at Con Thien, a hilltop outpost under heavy Communist bombardment for a month, and at Gio Linh to the east.

"We've got to stay in those strong points as long as the North Vietnamese are inclined to come across in that area in force," one military expert said.

Tactical, political and psychological reasons were advanced for retaining control of Con

Thien, particularly hard hit in casualties, and Gio Linh.

A pullback to any depth from these forward positions would endanger certain supply bases supporting U.S. Marine forces and Route 9, an east-west road over which U.S. military units are supplied from the coast.

A withdrawal, possibly yielding this ground to the North Vietnamese, might shake the confidence of South Vietnamese in areas now under U.S. protection and also might raise some questions in the mind of the Thais, who are ever watchful for signs of a weakening of U.S. resolve to hold the line against communism in Asia.

Some sources said a withdrawal from the Con Thien sector might have an upsetting psychological impact in the United States.

Some officers suggested that the bombardment, mainly from artillery positions in the North Vietnamese half of the six-mile-wide demilitarized zone, might be intended to lure American ground forces up toward the Ben Hai River boundary and possibly into a trap.

About eight battalions of American and South Vietnamese infantry last May drove up into the southern half of the demilitarized zone close to the Ben Hai River.

They destroyed extensive Communist fortifications and mortar positions from which the enemy had been dropping rounds into Gio Linh and Con Thien.

American officers say the success of that operation was due largely to surprise — the North Vietnamese did not expect a U.S. ground move into the DMZ. "It's apparent if we go in there again we'll be sacrificing surprise — we'll pay a price," a military planner said. "The enemy may be trying to draw us in now."

Edith Rolls Into Lesser Antilles

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Out islands in the Lesser Antilles chain were raked by tropical storm Edith's gale winds today but the storm once again fell short of developing the fury of a hurricane.

After stalling all night over the warm tropical waters some 250 miles east of the Antilles, Edith began moving slowly westward early today.

Highest winds at 9 a.m., EDT, were 55 miles near Edith's center.

Knowles Against Nelson in Battle for Senate Seems Unlikely

BY JAMES R. POLK

MADISON (AP) — Gov. Warren P. Knowles is now considered more likely to seek a third term in the statehouse next year than to run for the U. S. Senate.

Knowles, the top Republican vote-getter in Wisconsin in recent years, has yet to break his silence on his personal political plans for 1968.

But his very silence points toward staying in the statehouse rather than shifting his career toward the Senate.

Reliable sources report that influential Republicans in private business have asked Knowles to run again for governor, rather than challenge Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis.

"To the hard-core Republicans, the statehouse is more important than another vote in the Senate," said one highly placed Republican confidant.

Sources now guess that Knowles will go for governor again.

Through months of speculation over the possibility of a Nelson-Knowles showdown in 1968, Knowles has insisted all speculation is premature. No decision by the Republican governor is expected before the fall session of the legislature winds up late this year.

When the decision does come, it will be felt both in Washington and in Wisconsin, particularly by the state's lieutenant governor and attorney general.

Republican Lt. Gov. Jack Olson has been eagerly moving himself into line as heir apparent to his party's nod for governor next year. But that hope, of course, has been anchored in the assumption that Knowles would run for the Senate.

At least two Republican possibilities — former U. S. Senate nominee Wilbur Rank of Sun Prairie and State Senate majority leader Jervis Leonard of Bayside — might oppose Olson in a primary. Knowles could nip such a bloody feud should he run for re-election.

Democrats have been savoring the expectation of a Nelson-La Follette ticket that would thrust 31-year-old Atty. Gen. Bronson C. La Follette, heir to a magical political name, into the governor's office. But La Follette would be the underdog against Knowles.

Knowles and Nelson have been expected to stage an epic struggle should the governor take on the senator. Nelson, a popular two-term governor before his election to the Senate in 1962, will be favored to win again next year against any Republican except Knowles.

The speculation about a Nelson-Knowles showdown has its roots in the anticipation that the contest would be a natural. But at least three factors point in the opposite direction today.

—The people who put the cash into the Republican campaigns view possession of the statehouse as more important than the Senate. Knowles is the strongest candidate to keep it.

—Knowles has spent nearly three decades in the statehouse in various positions of leadership. He is a man whose whole life reflects his own motto for Wisconsin, "We like it here."

—Knowles has made no move whatsoever to build an image of a national leader rather than a Wisconsin leader.

He hasn't gone to Washington to testify when he could. He hasn't issued pronouncements on national issues. He hasn't capitalized on his position as a member of the National Governors' Conference's executive committee.

Since 1940 Knowles has been a part of Wisconsin government, as State Senate majority leader for more than a decade, as lieutenant governor three times, and now as governor twice.

As the silver-haired governor strides up and down the villages and valleys of Wisconsin, it is obvious that he enjoys the friendly recognition the public accords him as the state's top official.

He loves, above all, to hunt and fish in Wisconsin, and there are few trout streams on Capitol Hill.

The record the 59-year-old Knowles has compiled as governor is impressive:

A billion-dollar budget without a tax increase, sweeping reorganization of state government, a war on water pollution, a speedup in highway construction, a state open housing law, an expanded presidential primary, a master plan for vocational education, the start of an assault on air pollution, a new agency on urban affairs.

Even the repeal of the nation's last ban on colored oleo came, by happenstance, during Knowles' term as governor, and he is expected to succeed this fall in extracting the bulk of his traffic safety program from the legislature to bounce back from his only major defeat so far.

The slogan, "We like it here," is appearing more and more likely to be the answer to which way the governor will go next year.

Seminudity in 'Hawaii' Brings Arrest of Theater Owner in Carolina

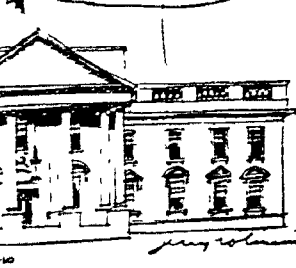

HIGH POINT, N.C. (AP) — After the film "Hawaii" was shown, the operator of the Center Theater, Bennie Harden, was arrested, charged under a city ordinance that prohibits the showing of women in topless attire on movie screens.

City Detective C. S. Cagle made the arrest Thursday after he bought a ticket and watched part of the film. The shows continued without alteration "Hawaii" is scheduled to run two weeks.

Harden was released without bond pending a trial in City Court Oct. 9.

Air Raids Over Haiphong Blast Missile Sites

Shelling Almost Nil Along DMZ for First Time in September

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command reported today fresh air raids on the North Vietnamese port of Haiphong and a surge of ground fighting in South Vietnam, particularly in the important northern provinces threatened by Communist troops massed near the demilitarized zone.

Navy planes from the carrier Intrepid flashed over Haiphong Thursday to blast 16 anti-aircraft and missile sites. Right behind came waves of jets from the Coral Sea to hit the vital rail and road bridge in the city's southwestern section for the seventh time.

The headquarters reported for the first time this month "no significant shelling" along the demilitarized border with North Vietnam, where U.S. Marines are dug in across possible Communist invasion routes.

Communist eDad But heavy fighting was listed in the northernmost 1st Corps zone and 72 Communist soldiers were reported killed.

Smaller fights dotted the nation in the Mekong delta south of Saigon, guerrillas ambushed and burned a U.S. Navy patrol boat—the first loss of one of the river boats.

Despite marginal weather over North Vietnam, Air Force, Navy and Marine pilots flew 150 combat missions. With the exception of the Haiphong raid, most hit at supply targets on routes leading south from Hanoi to the DMZ. Fliers reported hitting 144 river barges and a number of trucks, rail cars and locomotives.

Bridge Hit Pilots said their bombs dropped at least one span of Haiphong's southwestern rail and highway bridge, one of four main bridges leading from the north's biggest port. All have been previously hit and all but one are known to have been severed. The fourth, a rail bridge on the northwestern edge of the city has been heavily damaged.

Heavy raids on Haiphong, have been carried on whenever the weather permitted since Sept. 11 in an effort to strangle routes leading from the port and back up supplies.

Unlicensed Tijuana Bakery

Baker of Deadly Bread Found

TIJUANA, Mexico (AP) — A pesticide, possibly used to kill rats in a wheat field somewhere in Mexico has been found in bread seized from an unlicensed bakery, authorities said today.

Poisoned bread was blamed for the deaths of 17 children since Monday. An autopsy was pending to determine if a 61-year-old woman who died Thursday was an 18th victim of the poisoning.

Laboratory tests by the California Department of Agriculture in Sacramento found the deadly pesticide parathion in bread. But further tests were planned to determine which ingredient in the bread contained the poison.

Braulio Gomez Veronica, a deputy district attorney, said poison was found in bread baked in an unlicensed home bakery in an eastern suburb of this border city of 265,000. The baker was not charged.

Veronica said it was believed that the ingredient—possibly flour—was contaminated before it arrived in Tijuana because no parathion was found in the city.

Not even in stores that sell chemicals.

Flour for Tijuana comes mainly from Mexicali and Hermosillo, Sonora, where parathion is used against boll weevils in cotton and, one official said, possibly to kill rats in grain fields.

About 25 Tijuana bakeries were expected to remain closed today, and bakers scheduled a meeting to discuss the problem.

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Bill McCown, a 24-year-old law student, is the only man living in a University of Nebraska dormitory which houses 480 coeds.

It is because Bill is married to the dormitory's resident director and lives with his wife, Martha in an apartment in Pound Hall.

"We were somewhat apprehensive about what would happen if I had to move into the dorm with her," Bill said, "but everything has worked out well."

Calumet Told PSC Hearing Legal!

Defends Commission Action on Appleton Water Expansion Plan

In a letter to Calumet County officials, the Wisconsin Public Service Commission (PSC) has defended its hearing policy and approval of the Appleton water department expansion project.

Last week the Calumet board questioned why the county and other communities along Lake Winnebago had not received notice of a hearing the PSC held some time ago on Appleton's application.

PSC acted legally within its jurisdiction, according to Arthur Padrutt, commission chairman.

He made the commission's position known in a letter to Dst. Atty. Franklin J. Schmieder, Chilton.

"The City of Appleton, as a water public utility, has a duty to provide reasonably adequate water service and facilities to the customers it is obliged to serve," Padrutt said.

He outlined the statutes by which the water utility is governed and emphasized it had a duty to obtain a water supply to meet all future as well as present needs of the community.

Application Reviewed
Padrutt said the city's application had been reviewed in length by the PSC, and the commission issued a certification for the project designed to obtain water from Lake Winnebago via pipeline and expand the existing treatment plant.

Padrutt explained the PSC imposed certain conditions on the city, which included authorization from the State Department of Natural Resources. The latter has also okayed the $3.9 million project.

Calumet officials were told by Padrutt that at one time the PSC had jurisdiction over the matter of placing an intake line into navigable waters but under a state law enacted in 1965 such matters now fall within the realm of the Department of Natural Resources.

No Notice Requirements
Padrutt said there is nothing in the law that requires the PSC to give notice to anyone or to hold a hearing. He emphasized the commission was dealing with Appleton as a public water utility, and in doing so, had the responsibility of determining the merits of the water project and insuring the investment made by the utility is a prudent one.

"Your assertion that Calumet County has a right to be heard may or may not be correct," Padrutt said, adding there is no opinion expressed either way on whether the county's legal protectible interest was involved.

In Appleton's case the PSC was specifically interested in the investment to be made by the water utility in plant and equipment, which has a direct bearing on future water rates to be charged Appleton's municipal water users.

Schmieder had written the PSC on behalf of Calumet County contending it should have been notified of the hearing as "a vitally interested party."

Chimney Sparks Bring Firemen

Appleton firemen were called to James Madison Junior High School Wednesday night by a nearby resident who reported sparks and fire coming from the school's chimney.

Firemen reported that too much paper was being burned in the incinerator at the time, causing an excess of flames and sparks to be emitted.

The department also reported finding a faulty wire screen on top of the incinerator.

Four trucks and one squad were called to the school at 9:28 p.m.

Keller Disqualifies Himself From Trial

Saying that he "did not believe, in good conscience" he could hear the case, Outagamie County Judge Gustave J. Keller Tuesday disqualifies himself from hearing further proceedings against Patrick Kerrigan, 34, route 2, Kaukauna.

Outagamie County police arrested Kerrigan last Monday afternoon after he allegedly made several annoying telephone calls to the sheriff's department. Kerrigan was sentenced to 30 days in jail Aug. 29 for making annoying telephone calls to police.

The rural Kaukauna man also is charged under the state repeater statute. The complaint states that Kerrigan was convicted March 17 for public intoxication, and July 23 and Aug. 29, of making annoying telephone calls. He was sentenced to 30 days in jail on each of the three counts.

Judge Keller, who recalled the many number of times Kerrigan has appeared before him, continued the case for assignment to another judge. No plea was entered. Judge Keller set bond at $1,500.

Knowles Gives Plan to Help Disadvantaged

Special to The Post-Crescent
MADISON — Gov. Warren P. Knowles Thursday outlined a three-point state effort to bring dis-advantaged persons "to a point where they can take advantage of educational and job opportunities and maintain decent living conditions."

Knowles said that, "although Wisconsin has in general enjoyed healthy economic growth and prosperity, we have also been experiencing the dramatic results of persistent economic and cultural poverty in our largest city, Milwaukee. In our smaller cities and our rural areas, poverty also has been working a less dramatic, but serious, tragedy of lost opportunities and hopelessness," he stated.

To deal with the problem, Knowles said the state must strengthen the coordination among state programs for health, social services, equal opportunities, training and education. Place a stronger reliance on social and vocational rehabilitation and other employment efforts, and promote the health of citizens through an emphasis on community as well as individual responsibility, recognizing that physical, mental and environmental factors are inter-related.

Major Step
Creating the Department of Health and Social Services was identified by Knowles as a major step toward strengthening the coordination of state programs.

State government reorganization also has "improved the state's ability to assure equal rights to all its citizens in need of employment," Knowles stated. The act transferred the former Governor's Commission on Human Rights to the Department of Industry, Labor and Human Relations. That agency and the former equal opportunities division were combined to form an equal rights division. Reorganization will enable them to combine their efforts.

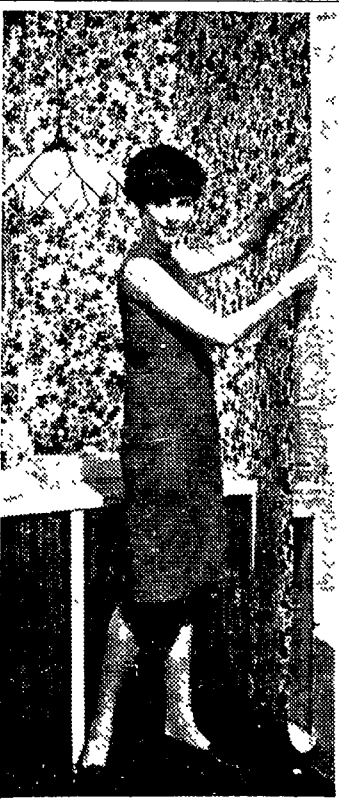

Describing the state's increasing emphasis on rehabilitation, Knowles said the biennial budget of the vocational rehabilitation program has been increased by 70 per cent, from $14 million to $24 million, of state and federal funds.

A new program adopted by the 1965 Legislature, Aid to Dependent Children of Unemployed Parents, is fully financed this biennium, requiring an additional $7 million of state, county and federal funds.

Renewed emphasis has been placed on the use of probation and parole to rehabilitate law violators.

Food and clothing allowances for people on public assistance were increased 8 per cent.

Numerous job training and employment opportunity programs are being conducted or assisted by various state agencies.

Appleton Woman Accepts Probation On Check Violation

With the conditions that she get a job within 60 days and make restitution for attorney fees and 37 bad checks within two years, Outagamie County Judge Gustave J. Keller Tuesday placed Becky Nabbefeld, 19, 1703 W. Wisconsin Ave., on probation for two years to the state Department of Health and Social Services.

The woman pleaded guilty of issuing two worthless checks, one Aug. 3 for $60.66 at the H.C. Prange Co., and the other Aug. 19 for $15.16 at Sears Roebuck Co., both Appleton.

In addition, Richard Hamilton, assistant Outagamie County district attorney, presented the court with a list of 35 other checks, ranging from $5 to $60, that she had issued in Appleton during July, August, and September.

Judge Keller had appointed an attorney to represent the Appleton woman.

Woman Reports Hub Cap Theft

An Appleton woman reported to police Thursday morning that four hub caps worth about $80 were taken off her car while it was parked in The Ivanhoe parking lot, 1216 E. Wisconsin Ave.

Sharon Nienke, 1463 W. College Ave., said the theft must have occurred between 9 p.m. and midnight.

Elderly Woman Causes Employee Disturbance At Appleton Plant

Appleton Police were called to the Cardinal Printing Co., 126 E. Pacific St., Wednesday morning when an elderly woman was reported creating a disturbance in the shop.

Police said the woman, who lives next door, had reportedly created similar disturbances before among plant employees.

No action was taken. Police said they will watch for a recurrence before making an arrest.

Appleton Man Jailed On Support Charge

Duane Krueger, 26, 2219 N. Appleton St., was sentenced to three months in jail Tuesday after he pleaded guilty of failing to support his estranged wife and three young children from May 29 to Sept. 21.

Krueger appeared in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 on a complaint brought by his wife, Susan.

Little Chute Youth Jailed on Driving Charges

A high speed chase that ended in a cornfield early Monday has brought a six-month jail sentence for Donald Castellion, 17, 1413 Main St., Little Chute, after he pleaded guilty of attempting to elude police and driving after his license was revoked.

In addition to the jail sentence, Outagamie County Judge Gustave J. Keller ordered the youth's driving privileges revoked for another year.

Appleton police started chasing the car Castellion was driving about 1:30 a.m. near Soldiers Square ramp, after a patrolman noticed that the car did not have license plates or tail lights and was traveling the wrong way on a one-way street.

The chase, at speeds up to 70 miles per hour, continued north on Morrison Street, then onto Meade Street, and ended when the youth's car stalled at Meade

Shooting at Deer Costs Youth $135 Plus 10 Days Jail Term

A night shot at a deer early Tuesday morning has cost an 18-year-old rural Hortonville youth 10 days in jail and fines totaling $135 or another 66 days in jail.

Roland H. Bessett, route 1, Hortonville, pleaded guilty of shining deer with an artificial light and of carrying an uncased, loaded gun in a moving auto.

He pleaded innocent of driving after his license was revoked. Outagamie County Judge Gustave J. Keller set trial for Oct. 27 on the driving charge, and set a bond at $150.

A Wisconsin Conservation warden said he and a deputy were stationed off a road near Shiocton about 1:15 a.m. Tuesday when they observed a car turn around several times. When the car's headlights shone on about eight deer in a field, Bessett reportedly got out, leaned on the roof, and fired once.

Wardens stopped the car and a loaded .22 caliber repeater was found in the vehicle. Wardens said the car was owned by a girl who was with Bessett. It was while Bessett was stopped for the game violations that wardens checked his driver's license.

Wardens said they did not believe Bessett hit the deer. In addition to the fines and jail sentence, Judge Keller ordered Bessett's gun confiscated and revoked his right to all state game licenses for three years.

Demonstrations Do Move People

The Post-Crescent has been among the commentators on the continued civil rights demonstrations in Milwaukee which have questioned whether the demonstrations and marches were doing more harm than good. While Father Groppi and his people ably demonstrated the bigotry and hatred among some Milwaukee whites, they also seemed to be solidifying rather than breaking down the barriers.

But recent moves in Milwaukee in favor of open housing legislation indicate that the demonstrations have touched the consciences of many people who otherwise might have ignored or not have realized the extent of bias and discrimination in the city.

Archbishop Cousins put his Roman Catholic Diocese solidly behind open housing legislation whether or not he approved completely of Father Groppi's methods. The Milwaukee presbytery has called for an open housing ordinance. The board of directors of the YWCA of Greater Milwaukee has gone on record as supporting an open housing ordinance at all levels of government. Support has come from other church and civic groups both in and outside of Milwaukee and Wisconsin. Bishop Hallock of the Episcopal Diocese of Milwaukee supports the ordinance and the Archbishop of Canterbury, now visiting in the United States, agrees with him. Now the president of the Milwaukee common council, Martin Schreiber, says he is trying to work out a compromise that could lead to the adoption of a city open housing ordinance. And while Milwaukee Mayor Henry Maier is still opposed to such an ordinance unless the suburbs are included, he did go so far as to propose one that would take effect when a majority of the suburbs joined in.

Alderwoman Val Phillips has four times introduced an open housing ordinance to the common council and four times it was voted down with every alderman, except Mrs. Phillips, opposed to it. It seems likely that without the marches and rallies, the Milwaukee common council would not have moved even toward some sort of a compromise and that even the various religious groups would not have realized or protested the discrimination and conditions in Milwaukee's inner core.

This is what has happened in much of the south. The Selma march and others in the Deep South brought to the attention of many Americans conditions of prejudice that they did not know existed. Demonstrations must be followed by responsible action to help eradicate discriminatory practices. But the events of the last few years in both north and south indicate that there would have been small public backing for changes without the publicity of the demonstrations.

Sometimes, apparently, it becomes necessary to rock the boat if only to wake up the passengers.

Mao Trying to Tone Down China's Cultural Revolution, Heal Split

BY JOSEPH KRAFT

WASHINGTON — A joke I heard all around the fringes of China this summer had Peking reissuing the little Red Book which serves up the collected saying of Mao Tse-tung as a guide to the Cultural Revolution. The new title was supposed to be. Mao's Second Thoughts.

That turns out now to be no joke at all. As Communist China moves into its national day celebrations this weekend, experts here see a plenitude of signs indicating that the Cultural Revolution is being toned down, perhaps even turned off.

The most important of these signs comes from Mao himself. The unusual trip he has just made across China apparently followed a decision in Peking to calm down the turmoil of the Cultural Revolution. In the course of the trip, Mao touched all the main trouble spots in eastern and central China.

TRIES TO HEAL SPLIT In Shanghai, at least, he made it very plain that his purpose was to heal fissures. It is now known that an editorial broadcast by the new China News Agency on Sept. 16 in fact reproduced much of the text of Mao's Shanghai speech. Among other things, Mao said: "There is basically no conflict of interests within the working class. There is no reason whatsoever for the working class itself under the proletarian dictatorship to be split into two major groups which cannot exist together."

To be sure, the present stress on harmony may be simply a tactical retreat. This is harvest time, and with food as short as it is in China, it would make sense to ease up on the political pressure until after the crops are in. That is what happened last year.

But this year it is not going to be easy to turn the Cultural Revolution off, and then back on again. In that respect, there are severe problems affecting all the major instruments of control in China.

The Communist Party has been most badly damaged. Out of about 180 permanent and alternate members of the party's Central Committee, only about one-third have not been removed or attacked during the Cultural Revolution. The line of party communication linking Peking and the provinces seems to have been entirely disrupted.

ARMY STAFF RAIDED

In the army, of the nine top officers on duty in 1965, the chief of staff and four of his deputies have been sacked or viciously attacked. Seven of the 10 regional military chiefs in China have been removed or declared suspect. Moreover, with only about 2.5 million persons, the army is too small to run China for long.

There remains the government apparatus headed by Premier Chou En-lai. It is big enough to take hold, and apparently its communications are intact. But it is so much dedicated to routine and order as to be wholly at odds with the turbulent spirit of the Cultural Revolution.

In these circumstances it is not clear that order can be restored at all. That Mao has had to lay his own prestige on the line in an effort to calm the turbulence is seen as an expression of the great difficulty of patching things up.

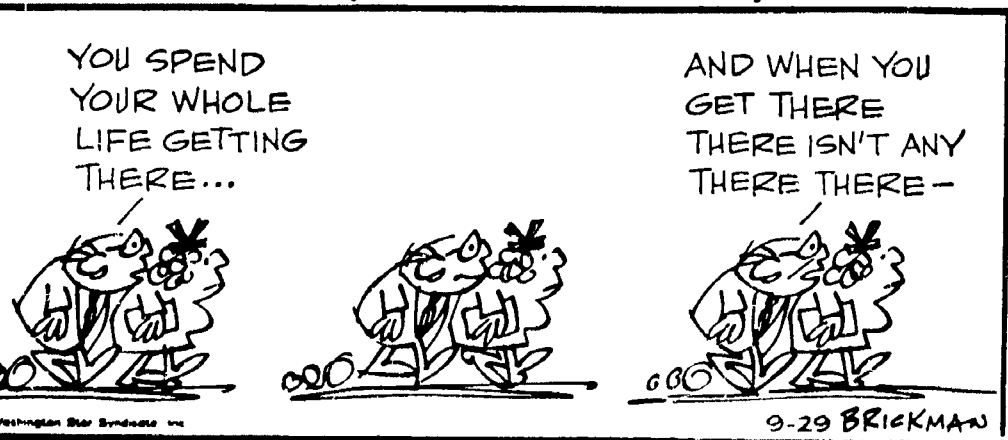

On the other hand, if order is restored the odds are long that it will be done in a way that tilts power at the top. The party, the army, and especially the government will have to be brought together. That would almost certainly mean squeezing out the harsh extremists of Mao's personal entourage who have been running the Cultural Revolution.

Either way, in other words, it appears that the die-hard Maoists have lost out. And thus it is only a matter of time until a new order asserts itself in China.

Workings of State's Supreme Court Told By Its Chief Clerk

BY FRANKLIN W. CLARKE

MADISON — "Dear Sir: I bought a coon dog which was guaranteed to be in excellent shape, but he died three days later. Please advise me what I can do about it."

This is one of many requests for legal advice received by the Supreme Court from individuals who believe that, as taxpayers, they are entitled to free advice from the court. But the fact that any controversy, however small, could conceivably be presented to the court for decision on appeal requires that the justices refrain from giving advice to one of the parties, or expressing an opinion on the merits of the case.

Actions in the Supreme Court are restricted to appeals from the judgments or final orders of circuit and county courts and limited categories of actions brought under the original jurisdiction of the court. No testimony is taken on appeal. The evidence considered is that which the trial court heard. In an original action, if testimony must be taken, the court refers the matter to a circuit court, which hears the evidence and submits findings of fact.

SCHEDULE DESCRIBED The court operates on a four-week cycle. During the first week, oral arguments are heard in 28 cases, five or six each day. Each party has submitted a brief in printed pamphlet form, and the oral argument serves only to stress the more important points in the case. During the second week of the cycle the justices, with the assistance of their law examiners, study the cases argued and the briefs submitted by the attorneys. Early in the third week the court sits in conference and decides each case by majority vote. The remainder of the four weeks is spent in 300 VOLUME RECORD An opinion of the court is a carefully formulated statement of the facts of the case, the legal points decided and the reasons for the decision. Published in the "Wisconsin Reports," it becomes legal precedent for the guidance of circuit and county courts and the general public. About 275 such opinions are published each year, and a complete set of the "Wisconsin Reports" since the establishment of the court in 1853 now contains more than 300 volumes.

Clarke

The published opinions, however, do not represent the only work of the court. In a recent month, the clerk received 21 petitions for writs of habeas corpus from prisoners in state penal institutions and 25 requests for appointment of counsel for indigent criminal defendants who wished to appeal. These were submitted to the justices in rotation and discussed in conference by the entire court. This has become the most time-consuming facet of the court's work.

Our Supreme Court has always been a distinguished and highly-respected tribunal, dedicated to the administration of justice according to law, and to the decision of cases as the Constitution and established legal rules may require, to the end that ours may be a government of laws and not of men.

Strictly Personal

Gamblers Not Crooks, They Don't Have to be

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

The other evening, I overheard a man in a restaurant lecture a younger man (evidently his brother) on the evils of gambling. The younger man, it seems, had just returned from a disastrous pilgrimage to Las Vegas.

His brother dwelt at length with this slight edge. A professional gambler in a poker game will never buck the odds — except for advertising purposes — and thus will always win in the end.

Most players are pathetically ignorant of the odds, even when playing sociable poker or bridge at home. They always think the odds are much greater or much less than they really are.

Not long ago, I was riffling through the pages of the American Statistician, a journal published by the American Statistical Association, and ran across a couple of interesting "probability" problems posed by Ernest Rubin of the U.S. Department of Commerce, which illustrate this point.

He first brings up the so-called "birthday problem." Suppose you are in a room of people, and want to bet that at least two of them have a common birthday — that is, the same month and date of the month. How many people do we need in the room to make this probability more than 50 per cent?

Most non-statisticians would say 100 people or more—but the answer is only 23! With 23 persons in a room, the probability is .507 that two will have a common birthday.

Again, if three cards are drawn at random from a well-shuffled deck, what is the probability that one of the cards is an ace, a ten or a deuce? You may expect the odds to be small, but they are better than even at .553. With these figures on their cuffs, how can the gambling houses lose?

on the "immorality" of gambling (an approach which carries little weight with the young), and then suggested that most, if not all, gambling houses are crooked.

Having met, in my salty days as a reporter, a number of professional gamblers, I could have told the man that his latter argument was not necessarily true. A well-run gambling house is not crooked; it does not need to be.

The only effective sermon I have ever heard against gambling houses is simply this: that professional gamblers don't gamble. They play odds, or percentage, and the rigid structure of mathematics permits them to pick up all the money in the long run.

A gambling house is quite willing to operate on a favorable advantage of 5 per cent, and can do enormously well

Looking Backward

100 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for Sept. 14, 1867.

Grinding — not grist but organ grinding. We have not heard the mellifluous, ecstatic strains of a hand organ in our streets since the time that an old codger was here and played "Old Dog Tray," when 11 or more perps were noticed sitting in front of the machine on their haunches, brushing the tears from their eyes with their fore paws. It was an exceedingly affecting scene, long to be remembered!

The other day while passing Second Ward School House, we heard one of the men nearby remark that the yard resembled a "jail yard," not very wide of the fact, either. The grounds around the buildings ought to be made more attractive by having trees set out plentifully and beautifying generally. There is an air of desolation about that yard now. We trust the School Board will obviate all cause for such complaint.

Hammel & Co. have received another lot of good-sized horses. This is another opportunity for our farmers to get rid of their slow ox teams and exchange them for horse teams. The crops are now being realized, so this lot of horses ought, and doubtless will, sell lively. Early comers secure the first choice.

25 YEARS AGO Friday, Sept. 25, 1942. Forty-one young people of Greenville's St. Mary Church Parish met to organize a Catholic Youth Organization at the school hall. Officers elected were John Dietz, president; Nathalie Trauba, vice president; Mary Dietz, secretary; and Clifford Ulman, treasurer.

Mrs. George T. Sine was chairman of the state convention of the Wisconsin Federated Women's Clubs to be held in Neenah-Menasha. Assisting from the Twin Cities were Mrs. C. A. Peerenboom, Mrs. H. J. C. Rosenow, Mrs. Frank Broeren, Mrs. F. J. Fitzgerald, Mrs. O. F. Johanson, Mrs. William Nash and Mrs. Van Buren Watkins. Kenneth Shannon was elected president of the senior class at St. John High School, Little Chute. John Bierstecker was named vice president, James West secretary-treasurer.

10 YEARS AGO Friday, Sept. 27, 1957.

Iveaux C. Andersen, Neenah, was appointed to the state building and loan advisory committee that day by Gov. Vernon W. Thomson. He succeeded the late A. A. Abraham. Oshkosh, on the board that directs policy for the state building and loan division, separate from the state banking department.

Bernard H. Kemps, Appleton, Outagamie County coroner, presided at the seminar of the Wisconsin Coroners Association. Kemps was re-elected president of the state group. Carolyn Ewald presented some of the work and activities of the Appleton High School Nature Club at an open house for sophomore and other interested students. Named to committees for the year were Bruce Mitchell, Mary Metzger, Barbara Crabb, Carol Hovek and Linda Haiesley.

National 'Commitment' Binds President Only

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate is shadow-boxing with the President. It's talking of doing something it can't make stick.

Sen. J. W. Fulbright and others are getting too big for his britches, although they didn't put it that plainly. So alterations are suggested. It's an old story with Congress and presidents.

President Franklin D. Roosevelt is still being criticized for something he did when Germany had Britain on the ropes just before World War II. He gave the British 50 old destroyers without consulting Congress.

And President Harry S. Truman got an endless pasting for going into the Korean War without asking Congress for so much as by-your-leave. But Roosevelt

CCHE Plagued By Medical Education

No Action Taken on Proposed UW-M Medical Facilities

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — The state Coordinating Committee for Higher Education (CCHE) dissected medical education Thursday, but found no cures for the chronically plagued profession.

At issue was the proposed new medical school to be built at the University of Wisconsin — Milwaukee under a plan proposed earlier this month by the UW Board of Regents.

The CCHE was warned by its secretary, William Kraus of Stevens Point, who also serves on a special task force appointed by Gov. Warren P. Knowles to study the medical education needs of the state, that the new proposal "is very difficult, a very expensive suggestion."

Ask Suggestions

The task force had asked the UW for its suggestions of ways to meet the pressing needs of medical education in the future of Wisconsin, after determining that the state's output of trained doctors must almost double and reach 360 by 1965.

Financially - worried Marquette, which figures it must find an additional $1.3 million a year to maintain present medical school operations has hinted at the need for direct state aid to keep them in business in the face of a constitutional ban which may block such help.

Coordinating Committee members stressed the need to maintain "all existing medical facilities" in operation in the face of immediate state needs.

But they were warned by Kraus that the "Marquette situation is at least dangerous and possibly desperate."

Needs to Expand

Medical education needs to expand, he pointed out, and "Milwaukee is the place" because of doctor needs in South-eastern Wisconsin and because of an abundance of patients for students to work with in the densely populated area.

The CCHE took no action on the report of the Regents. The task force is expected to report in late October on recommendations for the future of medical education in Wisconsin — dealing directly with the UW proposal — and on possible means of aiding the Marquette school.

Green Bay Vocational To Provide Training In Mid-Management

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — A unique course aimed at providing trained mid-management workers for the transport industry through the Green Bay vocational school gained final approval from the state Coordinating Committee for Higher Education Thursday.

Reaching final approval was a proposed associate degree program in business administration in transportation and distribution. The program will produce mid-management and technical personnel in the transportation industry.

The course will be the first of its type offered in Wisconsin.

Also approved for the Green Bay institution was an associate degree program in credit mid-management business administration.

Purchasing Unit To Air Buying Fuel Oil Tanks

KAUKAUNA — The purchasing committee of the common council will meet at 5:45 p.m. Monday to consider the purchase of fuel oil tanks.

The committee has been investigating costs for fuel oil and consideration is being given to installing tanks to help get bulk prices on fuel oil purchases.

A board of public works meeting is scheduled to follow at 6:30 p.m. to review 1968 public works projects.

Delay Selection of Urban Consultant

COG Committee Wants Funding Of Study Approved First

The technical advisory committee of the Fox Valley Council of Governments (COG) voted to postpone naming a consultant to conduct a $225,000 area-wide study of sewer and water utility needs until COG votes to supply funds for the project.

The action came at a meeting of the committee Thursday after considerable discussion on the need for area-wide planning in the future.

At its last meeting, COG voted to table action on including $75,000 in its 1968 budget for the study until COG members could talk the matter over with the city councils involved. The remaining $150,000 for the study would come through a federal grant.

Wayne Bryan, Neenah, director of public works and chairman of a subcommittee which worked on obtaining a study, said, "It is my opinion that action (on financing the COG study) will be deferred again."

Withhold Name

Bryan proposed that the name of the consultant be withheld until COG approves funding.

Eugene Franchett, executive director of COG, disagreed with Bryan, saying he felt COG will act on the proposal favorably this time.

The committee finally voted to allow the subcommittee to draw up a report naming the consultant, to be presented to COG after it approves the $75,000 appropriation.

The committee also will ask COG to hire an engineer to work as a liaison between the consultants working on the study and COG. Committee members agreed this would help take some of the increasing burden off their committee and COG planners in keeping the COG members up to date on study developments.

Bryan also noted that the Oshkosh area has not been included in the $225,000 estimated cost for the study.

Franchett answered that Oshkosh "is considering the plan and they have indicated they would probably become a part of the study."

Oshkosh will become a full COG member Jan. 1.

Regional Planning

In discussing the proposed study, committee members agreed that planning is leaning more toward regional rather than local application.

Zip Code Plan Support Needed

KAUKAUNA — Folders containing cards on which residents are asked to list addresses most frequently used for mailing purposes have been distributed to all residents of the community by the postal department.

Postmaster Robert Grogan said the purpose of these folders is to permit people to learn zip code numbers and utilize these numbers to facilitate delivery of mail. The public must cooperate in the effort to make it a success, the postmaster noted.

ferent political boundaries. "Neenah and Menasha are a little jealous of their boundaries," Bryan said, "and the same situation exists elsewhere. Planning in the future will overcome the jealousies that require a more unified approach."

U. S. Catholics Remove Last Of Mass' Latin

English Version of Canon Authorized by Bishops' Conference

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Roman Catholic hierarchy in the United States has authorized an English translation of the Canon or central prayer of the mass, beginning Oct. 22 thus eliminating Latin entirely from the audible part of the service.

Archbishop John F. Dearden of Detroit, president of the National Conference of Catholic Bishops, announced the decision Thursday.

The Canon is the prayer of praise and thanksgiving that includes the words attributed to Jesus at the Last Supper.

Exclusively Latin masses have almost vanished in this country although they are still permissible in some areas. The newly authorized English version of the Canon was prepared by the International Committee on English in the Liturgy.

It eventually is expected to come into use throughout the English-speaking world.

Simpler Version

This version is basically a direct translation of the Latin text but stresses simple phrases in contrast to the multiple and superlative adjectives found in the Latin.

For example, the opening words of the Canon, "clementis-misericordis Pater," literally meaning "most merciful Father," have been translated simply into "Father." The words "haec dona haec munera haec sancta sacrificia illibata," literally meaning "these gifts, these presents, these holy unspotted sacrifices" will be recited as "these gifts we offer you in sacrifice."

In addition, archaic words such as "thou" and "thee" will not appear in the English translation of the Canon. This is in line with English translations of other parts of the mass designed to emphasize modern English usage.

Navy Planes Collide in Blinding Rain

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Two Navy airplanes—one of them under radar control from the ground—slammed together during a driving rainstorm Wednesday and plunged to earth amid a shower of debris and bursts of flames. Six men were aboard. One body had been recovered before darkness and rain forced a halt in the search. One officer said all aboard were believed dead.

The Navy said one of the aircraft was an SP2H Neptune patrol aircraft with five men aboard and the other a one-seat RF8 Crusader, a photo reconnaissance jet that is often used as a hurricane hunter plane. "A big ball of flame came up when the planes hit," said G. W. Clark, 48, an electrician at the Jacksonville shipyard. "It was tremendous. After the ball of flame came up, pieces of the tail section were still flying around in the air and coming down."

"I looked and there was still quite a bit of debris floating down but there was no parachute from either plane," Clark said.

Witnesses said both planes were in flames as they spiraled toward the swampy ocean-front land.

The Neptune, which had two jets and two conventional engines, plunged into about six feet of water in the Atlantic near the Intracoastal Waterway which parallels the ocean shore. The collision occurred at 6:40 p.m. over a sparsely settled section of Jacksonville Beach about 14 miles east of Jacksonville.

The Neptune "just disappeared off the (radar) scope," said a Navy spokesman who was watching the plane on his radar control unit on the ground.

a rope dangling from a nearby ceiling beam.

Schaefer said this morning that if a charge is made, it will not come until the crime laboratory completes its investigation. "I'm most interested in finding a cause of death," Schaefer said. Authorities have not revealed whether they believe the victim of the butchering was murdered or died a natural death and was later hacked into pieces.

Mrs. Schmidt has not been questioned about the bizarre case on advice of her doctor. Frailing said a police official said Mrs. Schmidt reportedly did not appear to know where she was or who she was. A doctor told police Thursday the woman should not be questioned for 24 to 36 hours.

Dental Charts

With the discovery of the victim's head, authorities are able to check dental charts to ascertain positive identity. They have not, however, been able to find the charts yet. Frailing said detectives probably would have to "check with every dentist in town" if they are to find George Schmidt's dental records — if there are any.

Kemps said the head, which was believed to be "badly abused," contained some original ivory of 724 will turn out its teeth which could be used in a helping establish identity. The home town testimonial for Sen. Coroner said the head was severed at the base of the skull. The head, believed to belong to an elderly man had some gray hairs. Kemps said Schmidt had gray hair.

Although Kemps said the head appeared to have been abused, he cautioned that it could have been done after death. One official who saw the head, which is in possession of police, said it was hardly recognizable as a head.

The package in which the head was wrapped was tied with suko Munakata, 28, wife of an electric appliance merchant. They were the seventh group of quadruplets born in Japan. All the others died in less than 48 hours.

6 States Will Gain Representatives

Wisconsin Apt to Lose House Seat After Census

WASHINGTON (AP) — A computerized peek at the probable outcome of the 1970 census shows 10 states losing seats in the House of Representatives and 5 others picking up strength as a result.

California, which passed New York in population before the 1960s were half over, will increase its present 36-man delegation to 44 after the official count is made, according to Census Bureau projections.

And New York, after having had more representation than any other state since 1810, is not expected even to keep all its present 41 seats for the 1972 election. Figure New York for 40, the Census Bureau says. Besides California, here are the states the computer thinks will gain representation Florida, two new seats, and

New Jersey, Texas and Arizona. But divvying up the seats in Congress is a see-saw operation. When one state's membership in the House goes up, another's must come down.

The cuts will be concentrated largely in the Midwest. The losers in the Census Bureau forecast are Pennsylvania, two seats; West Virginia, one; and these Midwestern states, each slated to give up one seat: Illinois, Ohio, Michigan, Wisconsin, Oklahoma, Iowa and North Dakota.

In the case of Ohio, the computer is hedging, unable to decide whether the loss will be one seat or two.

Alternate Considerations

Census Bureau statisticians figured each state's chances four different ways, cranking in different assumptions about birth rates and interstate migration. Under three of these formulas, Ohio came out a one-seat loser and under the fourth it would lose two.

Another iffy state is Connecticut. Three of the projections show Connecticut's delegation holding firm at six members but the fourth says Connecticut will win an extra seat.

The Deep South was hard hit by the 1960 census, losing single seats in Alabama, Mississippi and North Carolina and a pair in Arkansas. But this time Dixie should hang onto everything it already has.

And Florida, which gained four seats the last time, will probably add two. The Sunshine State has been a winner in each apportionment since 1890. California is riding a gain streak that dates to 1860.

Census Bureau estimates indicate the population gain for the whole country will be about 15 per cent, rising from 179 million in 1960 to 266 million in 1970.

This percentage rise gives a rough yardstick for measuring whether a state is growing fast enough to hold onto the congressmen it already elects.

Although it's expected to be shorn of one seat in the House, New York, for instance, is not losing population. Its projected 1970 population of 19 million is up 2.3 million from 1960 but this is an improvement of only about 13.5 per cent, not good enough.

The population growth means the average House member will be representing more people than ever before. In 1960, for instance, there was an average one congressman for every 411,000 constituents. By 1970, each House member will have about 474,000 constituents.

The only states that seem to be losing population at the moment, says the Census Bureau, are Iowa, South Dakota, West Virginia and Wyoming.

'Ex-Long-Hair' Gives Both Sides to Style

BY CHUCK POSNIAK

Have you noticed what great extent the amount of long haired human beings of the male species have disappeared in the last month?

During the summer it was not difficult to walk down the main streets in the Fox Cities and find at least 50 per cent of the boys of high school age with bangs coming down to their eyebrows and hair covering their ears.

The trend of hair styles then took a sudden change toward short. The exact day the change started was Sept. 6, opening day of school.

From interviews with many ex long-haired musicians I have discovered that this style change was not voluntary. It was forced.

Conform or Else

A great many pupils, including those in bands, were asked to leave school and not return until they had visited a barber and their hair lengths conformed with those set up this year by certain school officials.

"Many students were sent home two, three, even four days in a row, coming back each time with less and less hair. One of these musicians was thinking about getting accepted by his school the easy way, "with a bottle of hair remover." Luckily, he passed the hair examination before he had to go this far.

Having at one time had very long hair myself, it is quite hard for me to look at both sides of the controversy fairly, but I will try to present both sides of the argument as I understand them and let you, the reader, come to your own solution to this Great Debate.

Disciplinary Action?

The biggest reason I have heard against long hair in school concerns discipline. Many of the teachers are afraid that a long haired student would cause such a commotion among the other students in class that absolutely no work would get done.

In answer to this, one ex-long haired musician disagreed.

"Long hair among high school students," he pointed out, "was so common that short hair was almost in the minority. Therefore little attention would be paid to a long haired student by the other students. A person with a pig shave would cause 10 times the commotion. The requests to leave school would cause more notice."

"If action was taken against the long hairs just for discipline's sake, the action was unnecessary. Discipline should be used to teach a person not to do something they have done wrong. As of yet the students have not been shown that long hair is wrong. They just have been told this."

Another argument against long hair is that long hair is unsanitary, which, indeed, it can be. All of the ex-long hairs I questioned stated that their long hair had to be washed at least two and sometimes three times a week. Their short hair may not get washed twice a month.

It was also the opinion that long hair is just as unsanitary for women as it is for men.

"If the males are forced to wear short hair why not the females?" It looks like short hair is in this year, girls.

Duality of Purpose

Long hair, in many opinions, doesn't conform, and "just doesn't look good."

Our schools' purpose, it is said, is to teach conformity to fair and constitutional rules of law and society.

But it also is the purpose of our schools to teach individualism in lawful thoughts and actions. Learning to live with people different from ourselves is the first step in our democracy.

If students are taught only conformity in everything they will not be able to cope with people different than themselves when they become adults. This is one of the reasons for racial riots. If we can't cope with individualism in dress how are we going to react when racial problems hit us?

Badge of Identity

To many young musicians, long hair also is a mark of profession. Taking away their long hair is like taking the barber pole away from the barber, the big white hat away from the chef, or the uniform away from the soldier. They still are just as able to perform their tasks, but something is missing.

There are many more arguments for and against long hair and I probably will be hearing many more in the next few weeks.

Whatever your ideas are, remember a scissors day keeps the barber away. OH NO!

Wildlife Subject of NBC Special

BY TV SCOUT

9-10 (Channels 4-5) — A beautifully told (and tolled) photographic essay on American animal conservation titled "Our Endangered Wildlife," is the promising preview of American Profile, the first in a series of eight Americana specials. The purpose of the program is to discuss the problems of animal propagation, the possibilities of extinction of certain species some of which have dipped as low as 20 (Whooping Crane) and methods to be adopted to preserve endangered wildlife. The program however, offers more than just a concern for removing the dangers of species extinction. It is a gem for the naturalist, particularly the urban amateur woodsman who takes his countryside wandering in television doses. Ed Dodd, creator of the "Mark Trail" series, narrates. (C-Premer)

6:30-7:30 (Channels 11-9) — Off to See the Wizard is strictly for the kiddies tonight with a production of "Huckleberry Finn" that is far afield from adult tastes. Despite an unusually large and select cast of first rate actors, this retelling of the Mark Twain classic seems to be all thread and no fabric. Eddie Hodges stars with Tony Randall, Patty McCormick and special guest Archie Moore. (C)

6:30-7:30 (Channels 2-7-12) — Michael Dunn tests his acting skills in a dual role on Wild Wild West. In the beginning his emoting powers are not too sorely tested as the corpse of Dr. Loveless. Later he shows up as the doctor's sole heir, a naive but determined Dr. Leibniz who vows to kill Artemus and West for the sins they have committed against Dr. Loveless. (C)

6:30-7:30 (Channels 4-5) — Tarzan pulls out one of the oldest jungle plots for a rather boring episode that is sure to be familiar. A pair of escaped convicts returns to the village of a chief whose testimony sent them to prison. (C)

7:30-8:30 Channels 4-5 — The crew of the Enterprise on Star Trek encounter a surprising adversary, launched from the earth in the year 2002. It is a computer on a biological probe which had been programmed to destroy not only impurities, but anything that is not perfect. (C)

7:30-8:30 (Channels 11-9) — The predictability of television is a marvelous thing as Hondo proves tonight. The series is based on Hondo's hatred for the white man who killed his Indian wife, so you just know that white man has to show up. Also he shows up with his young and pretty wife and, as played by Robert Reed, turns out to be a decent sort himself. (C)

8-10:45 (Channels 2-7-12) — An Alfred Hitchcock classic thriller titled "North by Northwest" is featured on The Friday Night Movie. It stars Cary Grant as an advertising executive. He is trying to elude the law for a murder he supposedly committed; elude the international spy ring that has mistaken him for someone else and set up the phony murder rap, and finally, discover what the whole thing is all about. (C).

Activity Flurries in First Fall Week

This glamorous picture of Princess Margaret was featured in London newspapers Tuesday. The photographer was her husband, the Earl of Snowdon. "Congratulations to Lord Snowdon," said Court Photographer Cecil Beaton, "and also to her hairdresser." Above, right, Mrs. Louise Day Hicks greets campaign workers in her headquarters in Boston Tuesday night when she topped a 10-candidate field to win one of the two places on the Nov. 7 ballot for mayor of Boston. Below, right, a pretty girl, a miniskirt, an umbrella and determination contributed to the artistic leap in a rain-flooded Kansas City street Tuesday and contrasts with the unimaginative, foot-slogging path of the man in the right background. Michigan Setting for Honeymoon HORTONVILLE — Honey-mooning in Michigan are Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Fink. The couple was married in a 2:30 p.m. ceremony Saturday at Community Baptist Church. The Rev. Joseph H. Duncan performed the double ring rite.

The bride, the former Miss Sandra Lee Kalchik, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Kalchik, Hortonville. Her husband is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fink.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fink were honor attendants for the couple. Bridesmaids were Miss Carol Krause and Miss Darlene Elsner.

Michael Mazaros and Thomas Van Lieshout served as groomsmen. Ushers were Larry Schimke and David Houle.

A reception was held at Bean City Hall.

Mrs. Fink is employed at Hortonville Wire Products. Her husband is with Thilmany Pulp and Paper Co., Kaukauna. The couple will live in Little Chute.

Mrs. Tillman to Head Parish Group

Mrs. Willard Tillman was elected president of the Christian Mothers Society of St. Mary Catholic Church at the Monday evening meeting at the school. Serving with her will be Mrs. Larry Konz, vice president; Mrs. Robert O'Neil, secretary, and Mrs. Lloyd Schabow, treasurer.

A potluck supper preceded the business session.

The St. Mary organization will be host to the Oct. 10 Deaneary meeting at which the Rev. Bertin Roll of Pennsylvania will be speaker. Members of 12 neighboring parishes have been invited.

A donation was voted for an underprivileged child through the International Affairs Commission, of which Mrs. Harry H. Long is chairman.

The nation's women greeted the first full week of fall by donning their fall fashions to meet the first cold gusty winds of the season. Miniskirts are still the mode but fall and winter legs will be covered with textured and opaque hose as a fashion note and as a protection from the weather.

Miss Lenora Slaughter, veteran director of the Miss America pageant, announced her retirement this week. She plans to leave her post with the pageant Nov. 1, following several eye operations. Miss Slaughter has been on the staff of the nation's oldest beauty contest for 32 years.

Out for Mayor

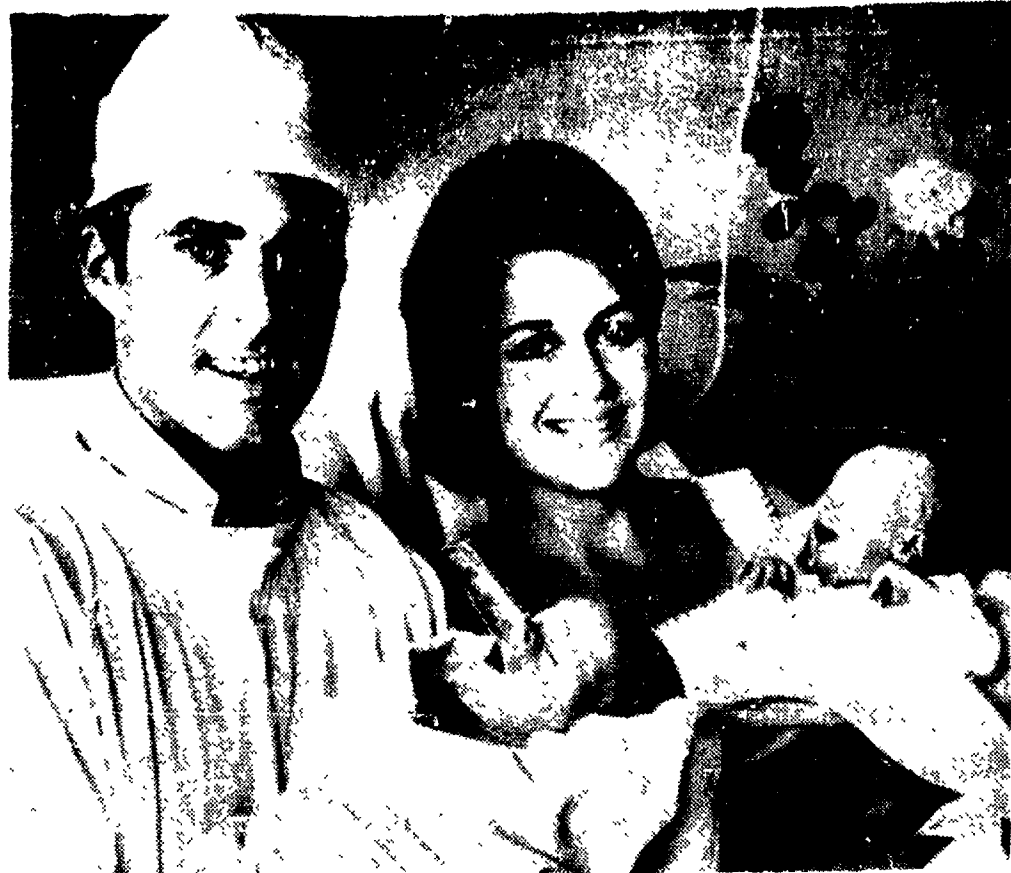

Mrs. Louise Day Hicks began her campaign this week to become the first woman mayor of Boston. She won a spot on the Nov. 7 ballot by topping a field of 10 candidates. In the non-partisan final vote Mrs. Hicks will face Secretary of State Kevin H. White whom she led by a 4 to 3 margin in the preliminary balloting. Mrs. Hicks has won school committee elections by wide margins after opposing Negro attempts to have their children transferred to schools in white neighborhoods. She is an avowed foe of school desegregation programs.

President Johnson's eldest daughter, Lynda Bird, and her fiancé, Marine Capt. Charles Robb of Milwaukee, had planned a week's vacation at an Alcapulco, Mex., resort. That is — until the rains came.

The couple arrived with their chaperones Saturday and were forced by almost constant rain to spend their time indoors. Tuesday they had had enough and left the resort area for the seclusion of the Johnson ranch in Texas.

Lynda was also in the news when plans for her wedding were announced this week in Washington. The social event of the season is scheduled for Dec. 9 in the East Room of the White House. Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Nugent, Lynda's sister and brother-in-law, will be members of the wedding party.

Actor-Singer Rick Nelson and wife Kristin posed Thursday with their identical twin boys, who arrived last week in Hollywood. The boys are Gunner Eric and Matthew Gray. The Nelsons also have a daughter, Tracy, 3½. Mrs. Nelson is a daughter of Tom Harmon, former All-American football star at Michigan. Below, left, Lynda Johnson and her fiancé, Marine Capt. Charles Robb, rush to a plane during a shower at Acapulco, Mex., where the couple planned to spend a week's vacation. They ended their stay early because of unfavorable weather. Episcopal Lecture Series

Poetry Attempt to Share Experience

Dr. Elisabeth Koffka took the podium Thursday morning to open the 21st series of lectures sponsored by the Women of All Saints' Episcopal Church. The professor of history and last year's recipient of the Edward and Ross Uhrig Memorial Award for excellent teaching at Lawrence University, completely held her audience as she spoke to them about "What Poetry Can Teach Us".

Dr. Koffka drew on her own works of this past summer, some 35 poems, to illustrate her own feelings about what is essential for the poet to know and possess in order to write poetry that indeed is original and part of the poet.

Two Criteria

The big question, Dr. Koffka explained, that each aspiring poet must face is, "How do we attain the end?" Two sets of criteria must be faced. The first is to establish the right kind of atmosphere for writing. The poet will find it easier to write and attain an end product if he is "removed from the wear and tear of the ugly cities." One must be able to concentrate on the writing of poetry. Dr. Koffka's own method is to be "alone, but not lonely." For the past sixteen summers, she has spent carefree days in the Tennerhold Hotel, Kitzbuhel, Tirol, Austria — her retreat in the Alps. It is here that she finds the impetus to put to paper experiences that she has had for others to enjoy.

Inner Feelings

The second criteria has to do with inner feelings. As the environment is set, Dr. Koffka has found, her words flow more readily in expressing these inner feelings — feelings that come directly from the experiences of the poet. She explained that a good poet must have had experiences — ugly and beautiful — to draw from. One can not write about another person's experiences as convincingly as his own. He must rather have felt, seen, and thought for himself.

Dr. Koffka warns all "would-be" poets to "beware of the big, ambitious metaphors". She explained that conventional rhyme is not necessary to poetry, but, rather, rhyme may be found in-between the lines. It is the sound of the words that are grouped together that can give poetry its rhyme. To be a poet one must have a feeling for words and word associations, there by "weaving sounds into melodies, just for the joy of it". Dr. Koffka went on further to say that avant garde poets might think of her as "old-fashioned for clinging to the beauty of words".

Single Word

A single beautiful word or phrase is not enough to make a beautiful poem. One must fuse many sounds into a "harmoni-

Nurse Council May Open Group to Other Faiths

NEW LONDON — The Green Bay Diocesan Council of Catholic Nurses is studying the possibility of opening membership in the association to non-Catholics and changing the council to a Council of Christian Nurses.

Object of the council is to improve the members professionally and spiritually. Ideas on how the organization can be broadened to include all faiths are being sought from clergy and nurses.

Further details on the organization and suggestion will be handled through Mrs. John Kraske, New London. Mrs. Kraske said a board meeting Oct. 25 in Antigo would place changing the organization's by-laws and further discussion on the Christian Council as main items of business.

At a meeting Monday in Green

Bay, the board voted to sever ties with the national organization and was granted permission to operate on the diocesan level with five chapters, Appleton, Green Bay, Antigo, New London and Oshkosh.

Representing New London at the board meeting were Mrs. Kraske, Mrs. S. L. Hirschboeck and Miss Laura Meshnick.

The New London chapter will have a dinner meeting at Liner's Steak House, Manawa, at 8 p.m. Tuesday. Reservations may be made with Mrs. Kraske or Mrs. Hirschboeck.

Spring Rite Planned by Engaged Pair

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hostettler, 828 W. Kamps Ave., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Darlene Luicille, to Paul C. Bagstad. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul W. Bagstad, 1110 W. Oklahoma St.

Miss Hostettler is employed at F. W. Means and Co. Her fiancé is with Topp's Standard Service Station.

A spring wedding is planned.

Continuing Education Topic

Culture Important Tool in Development of Modern Man

"The noblest of all studies is the study of what man is and of what life he should live."—Plato.

This was the basis around which a five-session lecture series in Continuing Education at the University of Wisconsin-Fox Valley Center has been built. Mrs. Ronald Mason, of the Center's anthropology department is instructor of the class, which met for the first time Thursday morning.

"Anthropologists are making discoveries every day," began Mrs. Mason. The area of their work is so varied that one can hardly open a magazine or turn on television without hearing some type of news in the field of anthropology.

The instructor pointed out that there are two parts of anthropological study, physical and cultural.

"These are basically the two different sides of man," she explained. "Actually the anthropologist is interested in the overlapping of the two sides, when they are working together."

History of Man

Physical anthropologists, or human biologists, study man and his evolution. They are interested in the history of the different human races; they make fertility studies, and attempt to find reasons for variations in human size in different cultural groups, such as pigmies.

The cultural anthropologist lives with different people, records their behavior and traces their cultural growth. Through languages, opinions, traditions and behavior, he can understand and help others to understand the varied nature of man, how he relates to others and how he relates to himself.

One of the biggest questions facing the anthropologist is "how did man get like he is now?"

"We can tell this from studying different phases of his culture," explained the instructor. "Man is unique in that he is the only animal with the capacity to speak and to think abstractly. He has given objects symbolic names, and when he speaks of them, others know what he is talking about. He also works to improve his way of life by inventing tools and living together in protective groups. This is a culture."

Two Definitions

Dr. Mason explained that although there are two different definitions of culture, one is actually a part of the other. In a smaller scope, culture refers to art, music and literature. This is all a part of the bigger culture which is made up of man's patterns of behavior and customs.

"The earliest culture is referred to as the stone culture," explained the lecturer. "Next came the agricultural phase. The present culture is in such a rapid state of transition that by the time it is named, the name will be obsolete."

Man is born into a culture which is continuous. He participates in it, dies and it continues without him. However, while alive, he learns ways to behave and conform if he wishes to remain an accepted member of society.

"He learns what his cultural group believes to be the right way of doing things," added the speaker, "but in most cases is cautioned that his is not the only way."

Culture Cumulative

Man is fortunate that culture is cumulative, stressed the speaker. He doesn't have to repeat any of the elementary and fundamental discoveries made by his ancestors before he tries to accomplish anything himself. With this accumulation of knowledge, society becomes much more complex, but man is more efficient in controlling his environment than ever before.

"Culture is one of man's means of survival. It is his adaptation to his environment," said Dr. Mason. "It relates man in several directions to his environment, to other men and to the universe. For centuries man has been compelled to ask of himself and others, 'What is my place in all of this?'"

Another question anthropologists strive to answer is, "Where did it all begin?"

"This question has plagued man for centuries," stated the instructor. "Most authorities believe that man originated in Africa. Of course, there are an endless number of stories about the origin of man. It is said among one tribe of Indians in Georgia that man came out of a hole in the ground on the other side of the Mississippi. History also points to a story of man being made of mud by a woman who wanted children. No one explained where she came from."

First Step

The first logical step to take was to decide where man might possibly come from. What other animal resembles him most?

Anthropologists and scientists have classified man as belonging to the primate group. In this group are the animals that most closely resemble him — chimpanzees, gorillas, orangutangs and gibbons of the humanoid Sub-group. Other primates are the tree shrew, the lemur, slow loris and monkeys. These have many of the same characteristics, but look the least like other members of the group.

"The identifying characteristics of the primates are the five digit hands, often thought to be the 'instrument' that made culture possible; stereoscopic vision, or seeing in depth; fingerprints; flat nails; a bony face; the beginning of a forehead, and a relatively large brain in comparison with the rest of the body," explained the instructor. "The group also has a reduced snout, the human being having none at all. The human foot is also distinctive, even from other members of the primate group, as it is designed for an animal to walk upright."

Common Ancestor

"A common ancestor of this group was the trunk of its historical family tree," she added. At the ends of the branches of the tree are the present primates.

The instructor stated that many of the historical observations have been proved factual by such things as skeleton remains and fossils. The fossils, the earliest of which are two million years old, date back to the Pleistocene age. Anthropologists believe that most of man's development took place during this period.

What lead to this further development? Early theories of a larger brain have been disproved. Discoveries of skull pieces and fossils show that early man's brain was relatively small. Many authorities feel that this development was triggered by man's ability to stand upright. Most authorities also believe that culture, which in some cases was the most fundamental stone tool, helped man to further his own development.

"Questions of his beginning will continue to puzzle modern man," said the instructor, "but with the many people working on it and evidence being found every day, the pieces are beginning to fit together."

Flowers Century-Old Good Luck Symbols

How many times have you said "I was just lucky"? For centuries, men have given credit to an indefinable something called "luck," and symbols of good fortune relied on by the ancients still tempt many today.

In the language of flowers, the clover is best known as a symbol of luck. A legend says that when Adam and Eve left Paradise, Eve carried a four-leafed clover as a reminder of her previous happiness.

Lucky horseshoes, which hang even now over many a doorway, date from an age-old legend. It seems that the devil in disguise paid a call on St. Dunstan who was skilled in shoeing horses. The devil asked to have a shoe repaired on one of his hooves. St. Dunstan saw through the disguise and did a painful job of repairing the hoof. To put a stop to the torture, the devil vowed never to set foot in homes on which a horseshoe was nailed.

Universal Clover Although the clover is universal as a lucky charm, other flowers have become personal good luck charms. Emperor Wilhelm, who was hidden as a child in a field of cornflowers during Napoleon's advance, later chose the cornflower as his seal. It's said that the camellia could rouse King Ferdinand from a melancholy mood and that anyone who dreams of lilies in their season of bloom will find happiness.

Fresh flowers of all kinds are a modern-day wish for good fortune. For engagements, housewarmings, graduations and business successes, arrangements of mixed blooms are a popular good luck greeting. Florists deliver thousands of the lucky charm bouquets to all parts of the country each year.

For those who like to carry good luck wherever they go, a rabbit's foot is the answer. Evolutionists existed even in ancient times, and a number of primitive tribes believed they were descended from animals. The rabbit was a popular ancestor in many groups and was worshipped by tribe members as a lucky charm.

Good luck charms are in plentiful supply. You can believe in them or not; the choice is yours. Good luck!

Home-Sewn Fashions Hit Spotlight for Fall Scene

Women's and children's fashions for fall took the stage Tuesday at the Autumn Creations fashion show sponsored by the Appleton Fire Fighters Auxiliary at 8 p.m. at Reetz' Supper Club.

Proceeds of the show, presented in cooperation with the National Cotton Council and McCal's Patterns, will aid the Cystic Fibrosis and Muscular Dystrophy foundations.

General chairman of the event was Mrs. Ronald Olm. Mrs. Donald Anderson served as narrator.

The traveling trunk collection pointed out the variety of avenues open to the woman who does her own sewing. Included in the show were fashions for women's casual and party wear and children's fashions. Some members of the auxiliary modeled their own home-sewn fashions for guests.

Fashions for the woman who does her own sewing were in the forefront at the Autumn Creations show sponsored Tuesday by the Appleton Fire Fighters Auxiliary. Above, Mrs. Dennis Krause wears an ankle length jump suit in a challis print. Mrs. Jack Kottke models a hostess robe with flared sleeves in a bright island print on yellow. Gerry Paul Graphos, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Graphos, wears a homemade outfit. Mrs. James Adamski models a dress length hostess robe in Mint Leaf pinwale corduroy. At left, Mrs. John Gerndt and Mrs. Delton Seegers, Kimberly, view the home-made mother-daughter outfits of Mrs. Robert Mittlestadt and daughter Gail.

Miss Dawn Uecker appeared on the ramp at the Fire Fighters Auxiliary fashion show Tuesday at Reetz's Supper Club in a three-piece cotton outfit—jacket, top and culottes. The outfit is in bright red duck and navy with white duck stripe. Proceeds from the show will go to Cystic Fibrosis and Muscular Dystrophy. (Post-Crescent Photos)

Gasoline Unsafe Clothes Cleaner

Never use gasoline to clean your clothes. You could cause a serious fire or explosion.

The American Insurance Association points out that vapors coming from a garment may be ignited by heat from your iron.

If you must clean a garment at home, select a less flammable solvent, read the label on the can of the cleaner and follow the manufacturer's directions carefully, the Association suggests. Cleaning also should always be done out-of-doors or in well-ventilated rooms.

To avoid the hazards of home dry cleaning, it is best to take your garment to a cleaning establishment.

Defender Will Win If Crafty

BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD

"How can a good player go down at three notrump?" we asked when he heard about today's hand, played last year in the annual Rubber Bridge Tournament in Las Vegas. The answer was simple: A good player can go down when his opponent is a better player."

West opened the six of spades. East put up the queen and South won with the king. South was too good a player to try an immediate diamond finesse. This would lose to the king, and a spade return would give West four spade tricks.

Instead, South led a heart to the ace and returned a club to try a finesse with the ten. South expected West to return a diamond after winning with the jack of clubs. Declarer would put up the ace of diamonds and try another club finesse, getting three clubs to add to his four hearts, one diamond and one spade.

Good Idea

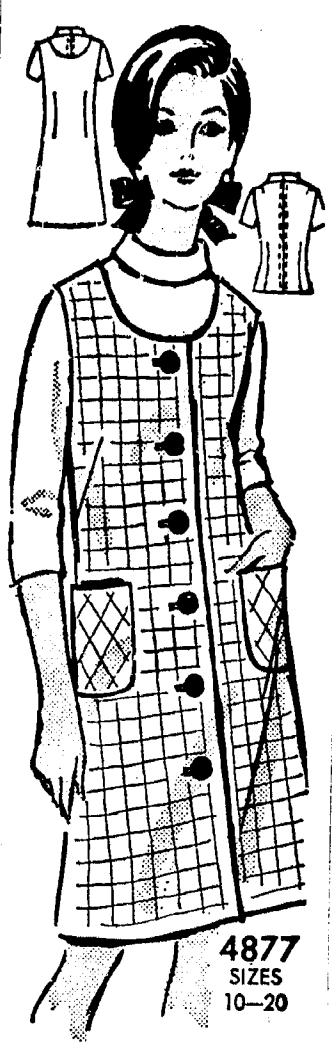

It was a good idea, but our good South ran into a better West. The play of the first three tricks told West exactly what was going on. Since South's plan was going to work West had to steer declarer in a different direction.

After some thought West led the three of spades. Now South saw that an unsuccessful club finesse would give West two clubs and three spades and was therefore just as dangerous as an unsuccessful diamond finesse. Instead of having a clear line of play South had to choose a finesse.

It's easy to see with our 20-20 hindsight that South should have stuck to his original plan to take a second club finesse. Actually, South tried the diamond finesse and went down. Don't blame South. Give West credit for misdirecting a declarer who was headed right.

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: What can a parent do these days to protect her youngsters against dirty movies that somehow get coupled with children's entertainment?

Yesterday I took my two youngsters to see Snow White. The kids had been looking forward to this delightful movie for weeks. I phoned in advance to learn if the second movie was O.K. for children. I was told, "Yes. It's a Western. The kids will love it." We arrived just as the second feature was starting. We weren't in our seats five minutes when I thought I was hearing things. The leading character asked where he could find a "house of joy." A woman appeared in a dress cut down to her navel. She inquired as to whether he wanted a redhead or a blond. Before I could get the children down the stairs and out the door, a hussy in a kimono turned up on the screen and asked if he would be more comfortable if he removed his wedding ring. My six-year-old asked, "Is the ring too tight, mommy?" and a half-dozen other questions which I had a hard time answering.

Now the kids are mad at me because they didn't get to see Snow White and I had to promise to bring them next week.

I feel sorry for parents who send their children to the matinee. They have no idea what those kids are looking at for a second feature. Please, Ann Landers, tell us what we can do to get two clean shows on the bill? — Burned Up Mother.

Dear Burned: You apparently live near an exceptionally stupid theater manager. You should write him and tell him what you told me. And don't forget to let him know that you will not patronize his theater if he doesn't comply with your request.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a 20-year-old boy who needs your advice. The trouble is my parents. Mom has a terrible temper and a will of iron. She thinks she is always right and will talk for five hours straight to prove a point. Dad is not an alcoholic but he hits the bottle when Mom gets on his back, and she gets on his back about five nights a week.

I am living with my aunt on the other side of town because her apartment is near my job. In a couple of weeks I have to go back to school and this means I just return to my parents' home. I read the yelling and the fighting. It is darned near impossible to study in the house. Also, a good night's sleep is out of the question. Please tell me what to do. — Headachesville.

Dear H: You don't say where school is in relation to your aunt's apartment. If it is possible to remain with your aunt, do so. But do keep in touch with your parents by phone and see them on weekends so they will not feel neglected.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I did not agree with your advice to the woman who is six years older than her husband. You advised her to admit it, get a passport and take that trip to Europe with him.

I am in exactly the same spot and I'd rather die than let my husband know my true age. I believe in the old adage, "Confession may be good for the soul but it's awfully hard on the reputation."

Any answer? Or do you choose to duck this one? — Free Thinking Woman

Dear Woman: Your brand of free thinking can be pretty expensive. Somewhere in this world there's a relative, a neighbor, a schoolmate — someone who knows your true age. The truth WILL come out one day and you're going to wind up looking like a rather old liar.

Too many couples go from matrimony to acrimony. Don't let your marriage flop before it gets started. Send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Marriage — What To Expect." Send your request to Ann Landers in care of The Post-Crescent enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope. (Copyright, 1967)

Regents Okay New Stadium in Oshkosh

Capacity of Facility Set At 10,000

MADISON (AP) — Three new stadiums and an ice arena were approved today for state universities.

Regents voted to build 10,000-seat stadiums at Oshkosh and Whitewater state universities, and an 8,000-seat stadium at Platteville.

Cost was estimated at an average of $1 million each.

Regents also approved a $900,000 ice arena for Superior State University, with the City of Superior paying 30 per cent of the cost.

Approved by Committee

The items had gotten approval of the regents' business committee Thursday.

The committee also approved a motion that students would be assessed no more than $5 a semester to help pay for the stadiums and that the assessment would start only after construction is completed.

The group added an amendment stating that approval was subject to local school districts making a substantial contribution toward stadium costs.

The regents approved preliminary plans for a fine arts building, physical education building and science addition, all at Oshkosh; a library addition at Whitewater, and a new library at La Crosse State.

Building Named

They voted to name the La Crosse building the Eugene M. Murphy library, honoring the La Crosse businessman who is president of the Board of Regents.

They also named a new physical education building at La Crosse the Rexford S. Mitchell Hall, in honor of the university president who retired last year.

Appleton Defies Cold

Large Crowds Expected Tonight, Saturday for Avenue Celebration

City officials were hoping for a break in the weather today as the College Avenue opening celebration shifted into high gear with ceremonies and entertainment on tonight's bill of fare.

Climaxing the festivities — chilled by the unseasonably cold weather — will be the parade Saturday on the Avenue, starting at 10 a.m., preceding a dedicatory program at the new Soldiers Square parking ramp.

Stage Show

Tonight's events include: —Stage shows at the Lawrence University chapel by Homer and Jethro with performances at 6:30 p.m. and 8:30 p.m. Tickets at $1 each will be available at the chapel with plenty of seats left, officials reported.

—Carnival rides and concessions at the AAL parking lot.

—Formal dedication of the new lighting system on the avenue at the corner of Morrison Street with Mayor George Buckley and Miss Kathy Evans, General Electric's Lady of Light, doing honors.

Merchants also have special promotions in their stores with several gifts to be awarded between now and closing time Saturday.

The nine-block stretch of reconstructed College Avenue was blocked off to vehicular traffic today and lined with parked, 1968 model cars.

City officials said they also made arrangements for an antique car display.

The city council committee and a special committee of the Appleton Area Chamber of Commerce, assisted by the Appleton Jaycees and others, in putting the three-day program together, were hopeful of better community participation tonight and Saturday.

Carnival rides and concessions, sponsored by the Jaycees, are at the Aid Association for Lutherans parking lot and will be in operation tonight and Saturday. Considering the weather, business was good Thursday night.

Appleton residents started to unwind Thursday afternoon from the tenseness that gripped the city during the week with the finding of a mutilated body — a bizarre case which attracted nationwide attention.

The Saturday morning parade — starting at College Avenue and Memorial Drive and terminating at Park Street at the east end of the Avenue — will be the

Appleton Gets New Funds for Youth Corps

Federal funds totaling $26,450 have been approved for the Appleton Neighborhood Youth Corps project for the summer of 1968.

Appleton, one of three communities in the state to win approval for funds, has been operating the program since December, 1966, with Norman Johnson, dean of boys, at Appleton High School-West, in charge.

The purpose of the program is to provide meaningful work experiences for financially disadvantaged high school students, along with counseling and vocational training.

About 25 youths are working in the Appleton project in clerical, custodial and maintenance-construction areas at all four high schools.

That number will be increased to about 50 next summer, Johnson said.

Pulchritude Voted 'In' by Appleton Parade Group

Members Take Dim View of Mayor's Earlier Actions

Politics got the boot and pulchritude was "in" Thursday night as the College Avenue Parade Committee unanimously reaffirmed its invitation to Playmate Jo Collins to be in Saturday's parade.

Meeting at the City Hall, the committee took a dim view of the words and actions of Mayor George Buckley earlier in the week when he referred to Miss Collins as "a stripper" and banned her from tomorrow's event.

Miss Collins is a professional model, movie starlet and TV performer.

While the committee deliberated the mayor's later statement that he would rely on the judgment of the parade group and abide by its decision, Miss Collins was receiving an official welcome at Outagamie County Airport from other public officials.

People Must Judge

The committee generally took the position the subject of morality was one for the people to be the final judge — not a politician.

At one point, Kenneth Loos, a former alderman, suggested Mayor Buckley check on some of the elected public officials who will be in the parade, to see whether they might have their name on the police blotter.

"Quite a few of the men in this room at some time or another had the not-so-happy experience of being in a war zone," Loos continued. "They know how our troops in Vietnam must have appreciated her appearance there."

Loos was referring to the fact that Miss Collins entertained American GI's in the Vietnam battle zone earlier in the year, along with visiting wounded servicemen at field hospitals.

Unfortunate Rhubarb

Other committee members said it was unfortunate the rhubarb over Miss Collins' parade appearance had developed.

Merten Ehrlicke, city welfare director and parade marshal, said the committee was comprised by a group of citizens who volunteered for the assignment as they have for parades over the years.

"I know they all want to do their best for Appleton and I feel we have a fine parade arranged for the Avenue dedication," Ehrlicke commented.

With reference to telephone calls some committee members received from mostly anonymous individuals protesting the parade appearance of Miss Collins, Ehrlicke said the group had no quarrel with those who were sincere in their beliefs.

No member of the committee voiced opposition to reaffirming the parade invitation to Miss Collins. However, Jerry Arenz said he and his family had been the objects of verbal abuse, and voted "present."

The issue disposed of, the group got down to work ironing out last-minute details for tomorrow's event. The parade will start 10 a.m.

Police Investigating Missing Suit Coat

LITTLE CHUTE — Richard Bowden, 2817 E. Wisconsin Ave., Appleton, reported his suit coat, containing $25 in cash and a $60 check, taken sometime Wednesday night while he was at one of three business places.

Bowden told police, he carried the suit coat over his shoulder from Weenie's Bar and Hammen's Bar to the Coffee Shop and did not realize he had the wrong coat until he donned the coat prior to leaving the Coffee Shop.

Police are attempting to locate the owner of the coat picked up by Bowden through a Green Bay Packer ticket stub found in the pocket. The switch in coats could have been made at any of the three business places.

Somebody Forget to Put in Furnace?

Courthouse Turns Into Massive Freezing Unit

Judge Gustave J. Keller was considering calling off this morning's court calendar.

Undersheriff Calvin Spice feared he would have to transfer his prisoner to a jail in another county.

And County Clerk Mollie E. Pfeffer was sitting at her desk, teeth chattering, bundled in a heavy, tan coat, while a few feet away, Mary Ruhsam, an employee, had an electric heater under her desk.

The temperature outside the courthouse was at the freezing point when courthouse employees reported for work about 8 a.m. today. And inside, the temperature was only about 20 degrees higher.

Poor Timing

The reason: The furnace was off. Actually, there wasn't even a furnace to light. The county is in the process of changing over from coal heat to natural gas, and during some phases of the changeover, it has been necessary to completely shut down the heating plant. Today was one day — and so were most of the other days this week, employees said.

County officials promised employees heat by this afternoon — one way or another. Parts for the furnace, should be here by Monday, it was learned.

An angered Judge Keller — in whose office the temperature hovered about 58 degrees even at noon — said he was seriously considering calling off this morning's court session. The case load was lighter than normal for a Friday morning, so he did. Judge Keller hears city cases — mostly of a traffic nature — on Friday mornings.

Voices Concern

Judge Keller also expressed concern for the 32 prisoners on the floor above him. Keller's offices and the courtroom are on the third floor. The judge said he had been thinking of asking that the Huber Law prisoners be allowed to go home over the weekend if the heat was not turned on.

Undersheriff Spice, heeding Keller's concern, telephoned Vernon Verholst, state jail inspector, who advised that the city health officer be contacted, and if the health officer thought it was too cold in the fourth floor jail, then the prisoners would have to be taken to another jail.

Spice explained that the sheriff's office is legally responsible for the health and welfare of the prisoners. He said he was looking out for the interests of both the county and the prisoners by contacting the jail inspector.

Spice said early this afternoon that he had been unable to get in contact with a health officer, but said he would continue trying.

Jail office personnel had a large heater working. The adult male prisoners were shifted to the large lockup quarters and jailers report that the body heat generated raised the temperature there. The temperature in the jail was about 60 degrees this morning.

There were 32 prisoners, including five juveniles and one woman, as of noon today.

A portable heater in the clerk of courts office raised the temperature there to the mid-60s. The thermometer showed 59 degrees in Judge Urban P. Van Susteren's office, and 61 degrees in the county treasurer's office. The third and fourth floors were the coldest.

2 Businessmen Head Division of United Givers

Captains Named for Solicitation of Professional Group

Two Appleton businessmen are sharing the responsibility for solicitation in the professional division of the 1967-68 United Givers campaign for 19 Red Feather services.

Paul Tepper, medical services representative for G. R. Searle and Co., and Don C. Smith, officer and professional business consultant for the local office of Gaarder and Miller, Inc., jointly announced the appointment of seven team captains.

Captains, and their sections are Donald R. Herrling, attorneys; Dr. Donald Bravick and Dr. J. T. Querol, physicians; Dr. Donald W. McKinnon, dentists; the Rev. Christian J. Thearle, clergy; and Vincent K. Derscheid, accountants.

The balance of the division has been divided between Robert A. Bachman and Dr. Robert W. Johnson. Bachman and his workers will contact engineers, architects and chiropractors and Dr. Johnson, opticians, optome-

Playmate Arrives in Appleton

Warmth on a Cool Night

BY WILLIAM C. CAREY

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

"... A thing of beauty is a joy forever."

Playmate Jo Collins, a 22-year-old bundle of beauty with a refreshing personality to match, brought warmth to unseasonably cold Wisconsin Thursday night... and looked forward to her stay in Appleton.

The Hollywood model and starlet, who was Playmate Magazine's 1965 "Playmate of the Year" and will combine business with pleasure while here for the College Avenue opening festivities, alighted from an Air Wisconsin flight at 7:30 p.m.

She was welcomed to Appleton by her sponsor Cal Perry of Perry-Ernst Menswear, and an official welcoming party which included public officials and an honor guard representing three of the U.S. Armed Forces.

Red Carpet Treatment

Miss Collins was presented with a huge bouquet of red roses and received the red carpet treatment in general.

The Seattle-born Miss Collins said she came here on a promotional assignment at the request of Perry, and if invited to participate in Saturday's dedication parade on College Avenue, would be happy to do so as a civic gesture.

Miss Collins, who had read of the complimentary things Mayor George Buckley said about her earlier in the week, was moved by Perry's pronouncement that he was proud to sponsor her appearance and that she was "A fine young lady and welcome anytime in Appleton."

Sergeant Robert Christman, a U.S. Marine Corps recruiter here and a Vietnam war veteran, thanked Miss Collins for the trip she made to Vietnam earlier in the year to entertain American servicemen.

"Pfc"

The Navy and Air Force was also represented and gave "Pfc." Collins (Pfc for Playmate First Class) a snappy salute.

Ald. Norman Beyer (20th), chairman of the council committee assisting with the dedication, extended the city's

Teachers Win $600 Pay Hike In Neenah

Negotiations Bring Largest Settlement In City's History

NEENAH — Neenah teachers came away from the bargaining table Thursday with the biggest salary increases in the district's history.

The base pay for beginning teachers, effective in September 1968, will be $6,000, with corresponding increases across the board. Present base pay for a beginning teacher is $5,400.

"Together with increases on the base salary, we have put everything on schedule," Dr. John Wilson, head of the board's bargaining committee, said about the 1968-69 contract.

"The total impact of the increases will be approximately $302,000," Wilson continued. He could not supply final figures of the increase, having just left the settlement meeting prior to the board's special budget meeting Thursday.

'Catching Up'

"We have carried out the board's intent to catch up on teachers salaries and we have accomplished several things," Wilson said.

"We are interested in making it more lucrative for teachers to take advanced training and have made the spread between bachelor of arts and master of arts greater, by adding a bachelor of arts, plus 30 credits.

"While going to $6,000 may seem a sizeable increase, Neenah is still on the low side and this figure will not give us much recruiting advantage in competing with salary increases other districts in the area have made."

"I am gratified that it is settled," commented Pres. Donald Shepard. "Now we can go to work and get the budget proposal taken care of, since we have this firm figure."

Jack Frost Takes Aim On Festivities

Temperature in Appleton Drops To Freezing Mark

Jack Frost showed better aim Thursday night than did the ball, ring and coin-tossers around the concession stands at the Aid Association for Lutherans parking lot.

Mr. Frost landed with both feet firmly planted on 32 degrees, and as of 1 p.m. today had flouted all predictions of a Friday warming trend by holding a heavy hand on thermometers at 42 degrees.

Evidently frustrated at the lack of attention he received from the street dancers who outsmarted him with sweaters, coats, boots and even gloves, Mr. Frost left the College Avenue celebration and turned his attention to the rest of the state.

Below Freezing

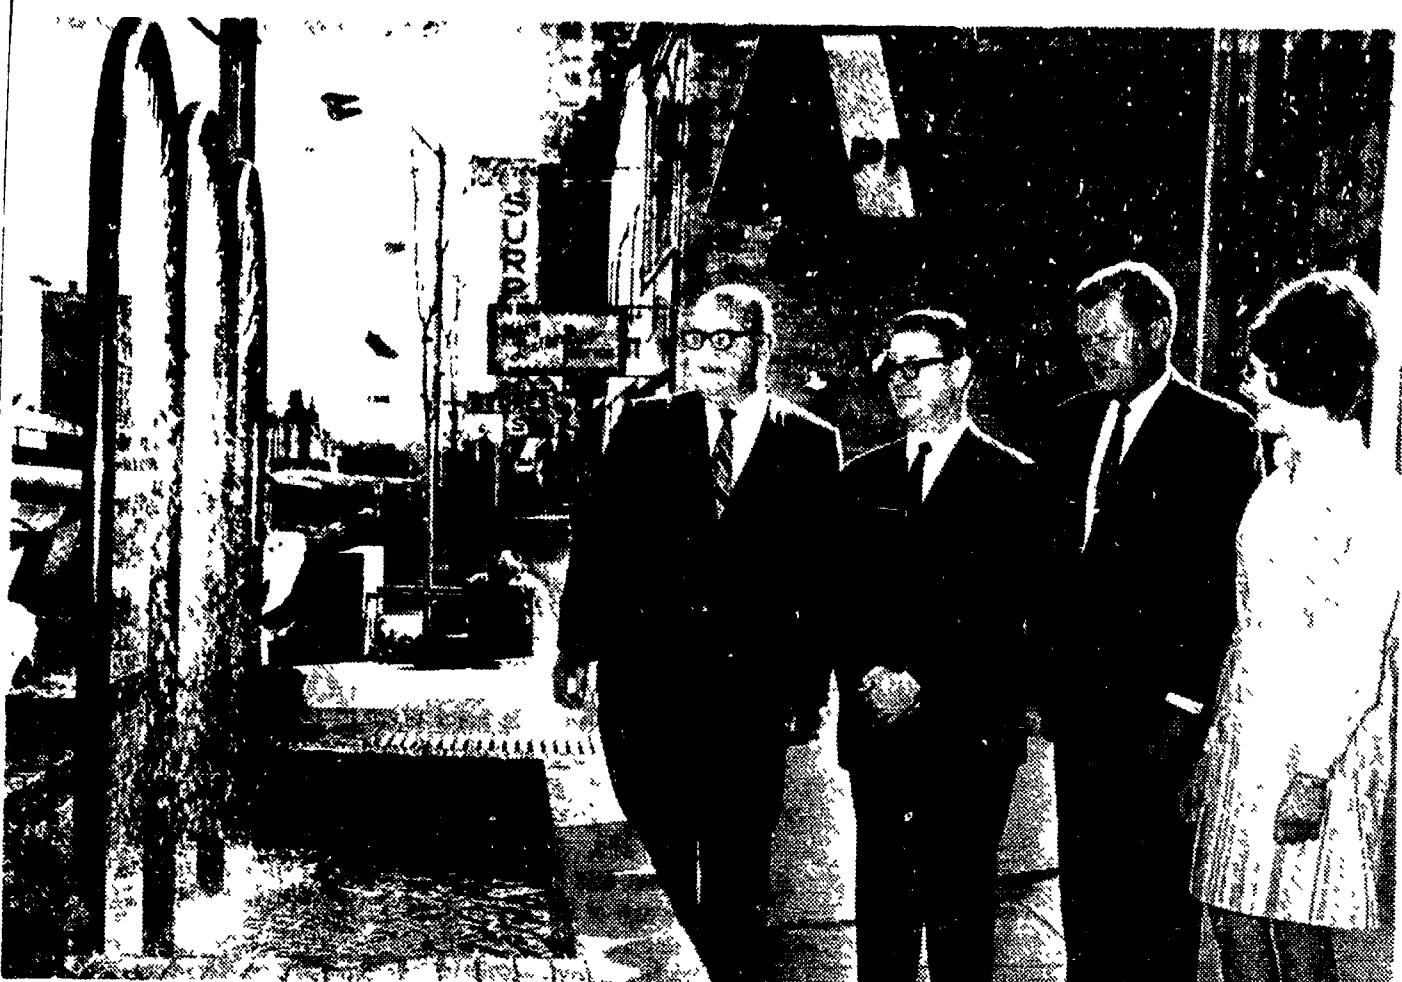

For the balance of the night, he did his job well, and temperatures were below freezing in all but some southeastern areas or point along Lake Michigan.

Eau Claire registered the lowest official mark, 23 degrees. Stevens Point dropped to 24, Rhinelander 25, Wausau 26, Park Falls and Superior 27, La Crosse 28, Madison 29, Green Bay 32, Oshkosh 35, Pewaukee 36, Racine and Manitowoc 37 and Milwaukee 40.

A turn for the warmer is expected for the weekend, however, with high daytime temperatures in the 60s predicted for Saturday.

Beloit topped the state Thursday at 55 degrees. Others ranged down to Wausau's and Appleton's 48.

Some light rain fell in the southeastern area Thursday and Thursday night. Racine had the most at .17 of an inch.

The Appleton State Bank staked claim to a College Avenue "first" Thursday when its ornamental fountain was turned on for the first time in a brief ceremony with, from left, Gus A. Zuehlke, bank president;

Professor Predicts Manager Victory in Neenah Election

NEENAH — A highly-vocal proponent of the council-manager form of government Thursday threw his support behind the city manager backers in Neenah and predicted victory in the April referendum.

Dr. Charles Goff, associate professor of political science at Wisconsin State University Oshkosh, told about 50 persons, mostly members of the League of Women Voters and the Citizens for City Manager, that the mayor system was "slowly fading from the scene."

He said Neenah, with its

Firemen's Ball Planned to Aid Disaster Victims

KAUKAUNA — Local 1594 of the International Association of Fire Fighters are planning a benefit firemen's ball to be held from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. Oct. 13 at the Darboy Club, proceeds of which will go to a fire fighters relief and disaster fund.

The Kaukauna brigade, organized last year, is holding its first fund raising project in an effort to build up a fund to be used to aid local families who suffer hardship or disaster as a result of a fire. Results of the initial effort will determine whether the dance will become an annual affair.

Off-duty firemen have been visiting area industries and business places for support. Music will be furnished by an area orchestra. Tickets may be secured from any fireman by stopping at the station.

YMCA Plans Bowling Clinic

A bowling clinic for boys, 8 to 14 years of age, has been scheduled at 1 p.m. Oct. 7 by the Appleton Family YMCA.

After the clinic, leagues will be formed, which will bowl every Wednesday afternoon at the Sabre Lanes. Bus transportation from each school to the lanes and back to the school will be provided.

Further information is available at the physical education department of the YMCA.

Rubbish Truck Fire Caused by Hot Ashes

KALKAUNA — Firemen were called about 9 a.m. Thursday to extinguish a fire in a rubbish truck on Ninth Street, the blaze believed to have been caused by hot ashes.

City crews were using garden hoses to extinguish the blaze when firemen arrived and damage was limited to a $75 tarp used to keep the debris from blowing off the truck.

Research Group Members Named

They are J. A. Van den Akker, Roy P. Whitney, Dale G. Williams, Elwood O. Dillingham, Herbert Meyer, and Paul Seib. Van den Akker, Research Council, is Chairman of the Council.

The Council will review, from a conceptual point of view, the research carried on as a part of the general institutional budget in relation to research programs being carried out by graduate students as part of their doctoral candidacy program and research being carried out for companies, government, and other agencies in the cooperative research program.

Reorganization Hurt Without Help

NEENAH — Without the help of a clerk, the reorganization committee of the county board could have a rough road ahead.

Winnebago County board member and chairman of the reorganization committee, Hibbard H. Engler, told members of the Neenah Rotary Club Thursday, "We are left with a reorganization committee, but no help to follow it through."

The committee had asked the board for $2,000 to employ a research clerk, but the request was turned down.

Policeman Loses Race With 3 Fleeing Youths

Oshkosh Boys Dash Into Woods When Stopped in Stolen Car Near Stephenville

Authorities are pressing their search for three or four runaway youths from Oshkosh who stole a car in that city, then fled on foot from an Outagamie County patrolman who fired several warning shots as he chased them after he stopped the stolen car Thursday afternoon.

Investigators said this morning they have no idea where the youths are today. The boys are believed to have stolen a 1960 Oldsmobile during the night from the Victor Voight home, route 1, Hortonville.

The white and blue, four-door hardtop bears Wisconsin license X3052. Voight, who notified the sheriff's department about 6:50 a.m. today, said a red 1966 auto, that had been stolen earlier about a half mile away, was abandoned near his home.

James Riehl, Stephenville, reported to authorities at 6:40 a.m. today that his red 1966 car had been stolen from his garage during the night.

A patrolman stopped the car, that had been stolen in Oshkosh, on Center Valley Road at Cummings Road, near Stephenville.

He questioned the three boys in the car, then, when he walked back to his squad car to radio for information, the boys jumped out of the car and fled into the woods.

The patrolman chased them more than a half mile, during which time he fired several warning shots. Police said they searched the green car and found a large amount of items, including blankets, clothing, and camping gear, that had been stolen from cabins in the area.

Cottages Entered

Two cottages were found to have been entered. They are owned by Edna Hoewisch and Ernest Schuster. The cottages are about a half mile apart near Stephenville. Police said it appeared someone had stayed at least one night in the Schuster cabin. Twelve trees were chopped down at the Schuster property.

Lutherans Will Mark 450th Year Of Reformation

KIMBERLY — To mark the 450th anniversary of the Reformation, special activities and offerings are being made at Mount Calvary Lutheran Church.

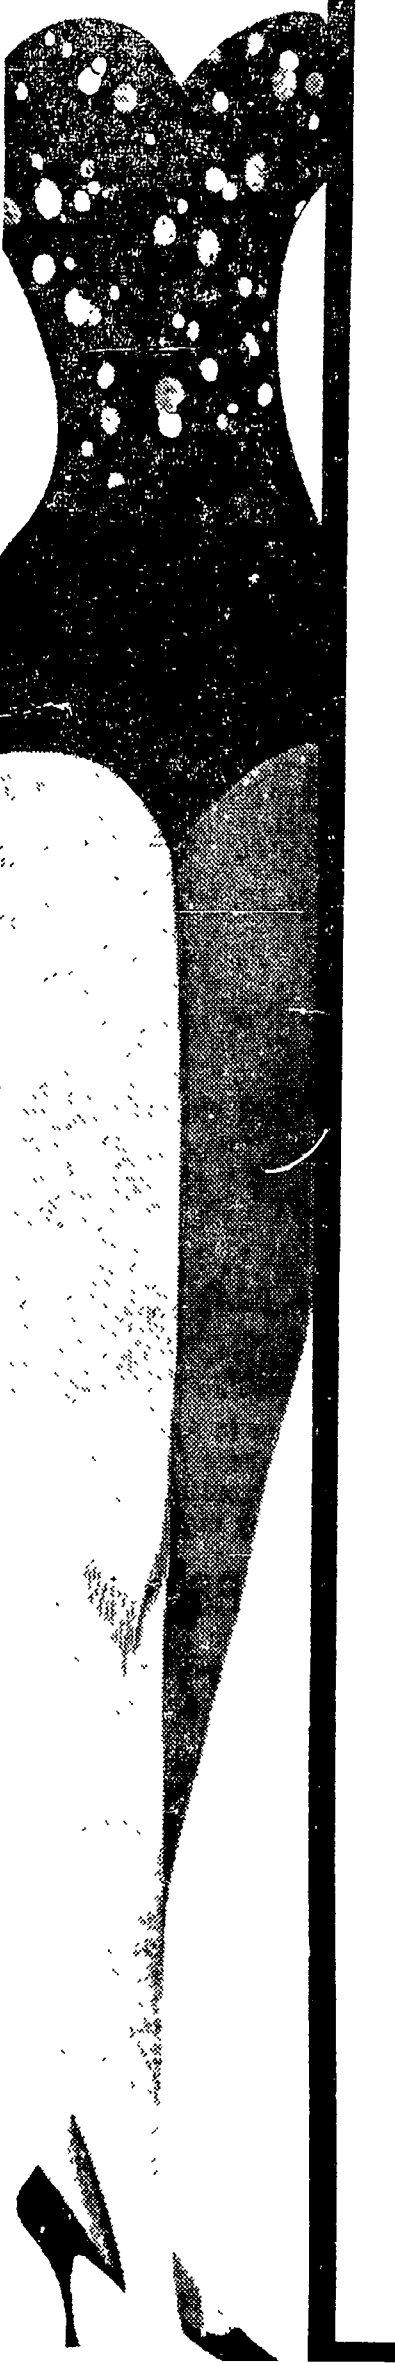

At 7:30 p.m. Sunday there will be a showing of the film, "Martin Luther," a 109-minute presentation on the life of Luther. No charge will be made and a lunch will be served in the church following the program. The film, open to the public, will be shown in the church.

"Good News For Modern Man," an American Bible Society new translation of the new testament will be made available to church members at cost price. Approximately 200 copies have been purchased.

Later this month the church will distribute English translations of the 95 thesis of Martin Luther.

Recommended Figure Reflects Increase Of $8,933,730

CHILTON — Recommended equalized valuation of Calumet County, as set by the Wisconsin Department of Taxation, is $164,504,930, an increase of $8,933,730 over last year's total.

Property in villages and cities was valued at $83,392,820 an increase of $6,517,220 over last year, while property in the nine towns has a total value of $81,112,110, an increase of $2,416,510.

Total real estate values were listed at $136,377,500 and personal property assessments at $28,127,430.

Last year's total valuation was $155,571,200.

All cities, except for that portion of Kiel located in the county showed increases over a year ago.

Total value of the five cities was set at $76,572,710, with Brillion showing the largest increase of $2,283,600 for a valuation of $19,096,700. New Holstein's increase of $2,129,750 brought the valuation to $23,309,950. It leads Calumet County cities.

Chilton's valuation of $19,671,960 included an increase of $927,860; Appleton section of Calumet, $12,077,000, an increase of $830,400 and Kiel dropped $164,000, to $2,417,100.

Villages are valued at $4,474,680 for Hilbert and $2,345,430 for Stockbridge, a combined total of $6,820,110 and an increase of $409,610.

Town of Harrison led the towns — and all tax collecting units — in equalized value with $24,044,700, an increase of $1,613,800. Other towns are Bril-

Resolution Called Ambiguous

Oshkosh Votes Against A Tri-County Setup

OSHKOSH — Admittedly, councilmen here don't know much about a proposal to the legislature for merger of Winnebago, Outagamie, and Calumet into a single county, but they voted 6-1 against it Thursday night.

Councilman Robert Moser was the sole minority voter. He said it would be better to talk it over instead of "passing this ambiguous resolution." He advised councilmen, "If you're saying you don't know what it's about, lion, $8,398,500, increase of $209,300; Brothertown $7,956,210, increase of $271,810; Charlestown, $5,235,860, increase of $69,560; Chilton, $6,999,610, increase of $220,710; New Holstein, $6,832,150 increase of $320,650; Stockbridge, $8,140,310, increase of $258,610; Rantoul, $5,969,860, increase of $8,460, and Woodville $7,534,910 increase of $370,610.

The recommended valuations will be presented to the county board at its Oct. 24 meeting.

trists, osteopaths, veterinarians and podiatrists.

Tepper said one of the reasons he is optimistic about the campaign is that the men he called were so willing to serve.

"Most of our professional people are difficult to see, and we hope they will grant our Red Feather volunteers early appointments so the job can be finished as quickly as possible," he said.

This year the employees of professional people will be personally contacted for the first time, will have pledge cards, and will be asked to give, Smith reported.

The Red Feather office has indicated that many employees of professional offices and other small firms were not contacted in the past, and some of these givers have called the office, or mailed or brought their pledges in personally.

Smith said that most of the men in the division would be attending the dutch-treat kickoff dinner at Reetz's Supper Club Monday night, and would start to make contacts Tuesday.

Figurines Taken From Gift Shop

The apparent theft of two porcelain figurines worth about $400 from the Treasure Box Gift Shop, 313 E. College Ave., was reported to Appleton police Wednesday afternoon.

Store officials said the two Boehms figurines were stolen sometime the previous day. Appleton police are investigating.

Appleton Woman Hurt As Car Collides With Truck at Intersection

Lillian Schabo, 314 E. Wisconsin Ave., Appleton, suffered a severe head cut, a left shoulder injury, and body bruises when her car collided with a truck about 1:40 p.m. Thursday at Outagamie County Trunk OO and French Road, north of Appleton.

She was taken to Appleton Memorial Hospital by Lindy's Ambulance.

County police said the Schabo car was southbound on French Road when it went through a stop sign and struck the side of a truck driven by Edward F. Ashauer, 50, route 1, Appleton, which was eastbound on OO.

The front of the Ashauer truck was extensively damaged.

official greetings as did Adrienne Kuleike, the current Miss Appleton who is a student at Lawrence University from Prospect Heights, Ill.

The occasion was a special one for Sgt. Christman, the handsome Marine and combat veteran, who said he had been in the crowd when Miss Collins arrived at Da Nang, Vietnam, in January. He was discharged and returned to the States in February.

"I didn't get a chance to talk to her, but we were sure glad to see an American girl," Christman commented.

Christman, incidently, is a member of the parade committee which invited Miss Collins to ride in the procession Saturday morning.

After checking into the Conway Motor Hotel, Miss Collins was escorted to the Left Guard Charcoal House where she "met the press" at an informal reception.

Straight Answers

Newspaper, radio and TV reporters asked for her reaction to the mayor's comments and she fielded the questions with straight-forward answers that would upstage any politician.

"I am not a stripper and I never was a stripper," Miss Collins said emphatically, and then laughingly added, "As far as Mayor Buckley is concerned — no comment."

A segment of the evening's informal program had the chic Miss Collins the target of newspaper and TV cameramen and other shutter-bugs who took pictures of the young beauty who currently appears in national TV commercials for a new car manufacturer.

Miss Collins was later joined by another pretty lass, Miss Helne Koji, a University of Minnesota co-ed who will be the Playmate's companion.

"Everyone had a 'fun' time and Miss Collins said she was looking forward to meeting the mayor.

She exclaimed, "Oh no!" and laughed when told a few car bumpers had been sighted downtown earlier in the evening with stickers proclaiming, "Jo Collins for Mayor."

'Guidance Day' Set Saturday

School Counselors Will Learn About Job Opportunities

The second annual Guidance Counselor's Day, to acquaint high school guidance counselors with job opportunities for graduating seniors in the Fox Valley, has been scheduled for Saturday.

The program is sponsored jointly by the Appleton and Twin Cities personnel associations in cooperation with the Wisconsin State Employment Service.

A. P. Engebretson, general chairman, said the event was made an annual affair after the reception given last year's program.

Plan Tours

He said 53 counselors from 23 area high schools have made reservations for the program and 45 counselors plan to make scheduled tours of industries.

Five tours, consisting of three firms each, have been scheduled.

Tours are scheduled from 9 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. after an 8:30 a.m. registration at the Appleton Elks Club.

A 7 p.m. dinner at the Elks Club, preceded by a social hour and noon lunches, are being paid for by the Appleton Area Chamber of Commerce and the Chamber of Commerce of Neenah-Menasha.

Stewart D. North, assistant professor in department of education administration, University of Wisconsin, Madison, will speak on "Introducing the Youth to the World of Work."

Payroll Checks Stolen From Car

KAUKAUNA — Larry Verhagen, 706 Metoxen Ave., reported the theft of 24 payroll checks from the front seat of his car sometime between 9 and 10:30 a.m. Thursday. The unlocked car was parked in front of his home.

Some cancelled checks, which were also taken, were recovered a few blocks from his home.

The checks numbering 4333 to 4357 were issued by Larry's Markets Inc. Police have notified all area businessmen to be on the lookout for the stolen checks.

high point of the civic celebration.

Parade Marshal Merten Ehrlicke said several band, drum and bugle and marching units will appear in the parade, along with city officials and mayors and other officials from surrounding communities.

Byrnes Speaks

Rep. John Byrnes, R-Green Bay, will be the city's official guest of honor, according to Mayor Buckley. Buckley said he and Byrnes will be cutting two ribbons Saturday morning — one at the parade starting point on the avenue to officially dedicate the street, and the other at the ramp.

Buckley will introduce Byrnes, who will be the main speaker, at the ramp dedication immediately after the parade.

Gov. Warren Knowles sent his regrets that he could not attend because he will be spending the day with California Gov. Ronald Reagan in Milwaukee. Senators Nelson also said press of business prevented them from being here. They all congratulated the city on its new street and ramp.

After the ramp ceremonies, there will be an auction of old College Avenue street signs.

Scheduled to arrive here tonight or early Saturday will be "Miss Wisconsin," Miss Barbara Burk Baugh of Brookfield, who was the second runner-up in the recent Miss America competition.

She will appear in the parade along with the "Lady of Light," "Miss Appleton," Adrienne Kuleike of Appleton, and Playmate Jo Collins, Holywood, Calif.

Red Feathers To be Placed on College Avenue

Red feathers will decorate the avenue beginning Monday after school when Girl Scouts and Boy Scouts in uniform place the United Givers reminders on the new City of Appleton kiosk bulletin boards.

Youth teams will meet at the United Givers headquarters next to the Oneida Street entrance of the Conway Motor Hotel to pick up posters, 44-inch red feathers and other display materials.

The young people also will be carrying window display materials into stores in Appleton's various shopping centers, and will request that the posters, carrying this year's appeal for the $313,246 goal, be placed in prominent spots in the windows and on counters in the stores.

Directing the team will be Miss Colleen Myers, Girl Scout director and Thomas Wright, district executive for the area Boy Scout Council.

p.m. Thursday when the Jaycees treated hundreds of onlookers in the downtown area with a 20 minutes fireworks display. Mayor George Buckley and Ald. John Ayers (12th), council president, lit the first salutes as "Miss Appleton" looked on.

Setting for the fireworks was the triangle-shaped area near the Washington and Franklin Street extension.

Later in the night there was dancing in the streets, thanks to the Appleton Musicians' Union and Avenue Grand Opening Committee which had three bands providing music at block shindigs in the business district.

Square dancers enjoyed themselves in the 100 block of West College. Music for other dancers — mostly a young crowd of rock 'n' roll enthusiasts — was provided at other locations by the Harold Ferron Orchestra. The Picket Fense group and the Ken Schmalz band.

Make This Easy Box-Lid Clasp With Cloth Tape

BY CAPPY DICK

The hinged lid of a cardboard box can be kept closed by means and the lid. Each end of the tape must be turned back upon itself as shown by the arrow in Figure 2. This will prevent your fingers from becoming sticky in buttoning and unbuttoning the tape.

When the box lid is closed, it will be easy to button the two ends together, holding the lid securely in place, even if the box is turned upside down. Because the tape has been turned back at each end, the buttoning and unbuttoning will not bring you into contact with any sticky surface.

Postponement Creates Tiger Mound Woes

Twins, Red Sox Open 2-Game Series Saturday

By RON RAPOPORT

Associated Press Sports Writer

The weatherman, throwing his delaying spitter at Detroit, has raised the distinct possibility that you or I will wind up pitching for the Tigers in their last game of the regular season.

The opening game of Detroit's last-ditch series with California was rained out Thursday night and now the Tigers—still in contention in the American League's up-tight pennant race—face a two-night doubleheader today and single games Saturday and Sunday.

Joe Sparna was to pitch Thursday and, with Earl Wilson scheduled today and Mickey Lolich on Saturday, Sparna conceivably could have come back with two days rest for the finale Sunday.

But with Sparna's turn moved up to today's first game, he's out of the picture after that. Denny McLain, who dislocated a couple of toes last week, says he's ready, but Manager Mayo Smith is skeptical. And that exhausts the list of Tiger starters.

The forecast in Detroit today, by the way, was for rain, setting up the intriguing possibility of consecutive doubleheaders on Saturday and Sunday. The Ti-season as Wisconsin coach, the Badgers will try to continue that tradition against Arizona State. Wisconsin will throw a strong passing attack and stubborn defense against the Sun Devils, who have explosive runners and solid linemen.

Arizona State owns a 1-1 record. Wisconsin, a 17-0 loser to Washington in its road opener a week ago, is a slight favorite to continue what Coatta helped start 18 years ago as a slender sophomore.

The 41-0 victory over Marquette in 1949 marked not only the first game for Coatta as a substitute quarterback but also the first game for head Coach Ivan Williamson, still his boss today as Wisconsin's athletic director.

Good Day

Coatta hit four of six passes, including an 18-yard touchdown toss. He engineered another 70-yard scoring strike on a spectacular lateral and pass play.

Since then Wisconsin has never been beaten in its first home game, although the string does include a scoreless tie with Colorado two years ago. Among the 17 opening victims were such prominent foes as Penn State, Stanford, Utah and Kansas State.

Coatta, 38, who still owns the Big Ten record for passing accuracy as a result of his three seasons as Badger quarterback, became head coach this year with the assignment of rekindling Wisconsin's football fortunes after three losing campaigns.

His success Saturday will still rest on the quarterback.

The Badgers' tandem of tossers, John Boyajian and John Ryan, hit 17 of 25 passes against Washington, but were dumped 10 times for losses while trying to throw.

Boyajian may start again Saturday against the Sun Devils, but Ryan, the No. 1 quarterback until injured in pre-season practice, is expected to see increasing action. Coatta was waiting until the game to pick the starter.

Choice Still Open

Either Wayne Todd, an injured junior who was the team's top ground gainer last year, or sophomore Jim Little from Northport, Ala., will start at fullback. Junior John Smith, a transfer student from Eastern Arizona Junior College, will go again at halfback.

The Sun Devils also have an unsettled quarterback situation, with a choice between veteran Rick Shaw and newcomer Ed Roseborough. The pair hit 22 of 32 passes in a 27-21 loss to Oregon State last week, but the Beavers shredded the Sun Devil defense.

City Council Will Attend Oct. 18 AL Meeting

Finley Tells Kansas City He'll Move

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Charles O. Finley told the city fathers Thursday that he has had enough of Kansas City and wants to take his American League baseball club and get out.

The city insists major league baseball should not turn its back on a city that has endured a last-place club for much of 13 years, a mule mascot, minor league players and antics of an owner who has chosen to abandon a community that voted cash to build a 45,000 seat stadium with a roofed playing field.

The City Council is going to an Oct. 18 meeting of the American League prepared to convince club owners that Kansas

Falcons' Explosive Potential Source of Concern for Bays

Ron Smith, Tommy McDonald Put Extra Spark in Atlanta Offense

Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — The Packers are undefeated (10-1) and the Atlanta Falcons (0-2) have yet to win.

This suggests the world champions would have to be solid favorites in Sunday's exchange with the Georgians in Milwaukee County Stadium.

There is, however, one sobering statistic to ponder in this connection. Despite their unimposing record, the Falcons have mounted more points (38) than the Pack (30) to date, amassing 31 of them in a spectacular comeback against the formidable Baltimore Colts before submitting 38-31, which is an obvious testimonial to their explosive potential.

More Complicated

These figures indicate coping with the Atlantans is likely to prove more complicated for the Packers than it was a year ago, when they rumbled to a 56-3 triumph with the aid of some longball heroics from the defense and a 77-yard punt return by Donny Anderson.

This possibility is traceable in large part to the presence of ex-Wisconsin Badger Ron (Pinto) Smith and the accomplished

Sandlot Grid Tilt Results in Death

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Anthony J. Liscolta, 19, of New Orleans, died in a hospital Thursday of a brain injury received in a sandlot football game last Saturday.

Officers said Liscolta was knocked unconscious during the game—apparently hit on the temple by an elbow, knee or foot during a pileup at the line of scrimmage.

Tommy McDonald in the Pack offense.

"McDonald is pushing to be our flanker (Tommy, acquired in a recent trade with the Los Angeles Rams, has been sharing the assignment with veteran Alex Hawkins to date) and probably will be," Falcon publicity director Jan Van Duser reports.

Defensive Back

"Smith was a defensive back all last year (he was a regular at the left corner) and we've got him at split end now," Van Duser further informed. "He went 99 yards for a touchdown against the Colts — he runs the 100 in 9.6, you know."

"The addition of Smith and McDonald on offense give us some outside speed in the receiving department," he pointed out, "something we haven't had."

Taking note of these developments after studying the film of the Falcons' most recent match with the San Francisco 49ers,

With sights set on a second straight road victory, the Lawrence University football team will travel to Northfield, Minn., Saturday to meet Carleton College in a Midwest Conference game.

Carleton, a 28-19 loser to Monmouth College last weekend, features a backfield designed around speed and a highly improved passing attack.

Lawrence, which piled up 255 yards rushing in the season opener against Coe last Saturday, is expected to rely on the strong running of halfback Steve Figi and quarterback Chuck McKee. The other running back position is still a question mark as fullback Dick Witte re-injured a shoulder in the Coe game and had to leave after the first period.

Unable to Start

Coach Ron Roberts, of the Vikes, indicated that if Witte is unable to start at his regular position either Dale Schuparra or defensive ace Gary Hietpas will take over the fullback duties.

Schuparra and Hietpas shared the fullback role against Coe with Schuparra averaging 3.4 yards per carry and Hietpas Turn to Page 6, Col. 4

Racine Lutheran's Big Line to Pose Problem for FVL

Game Slated Here Saturday; Foxes' Huebner Out for Season

BY MARTIN STEFFEL

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Throughout football practice sessions at Fox Valley Lutheran High School this week, the big question has been, "How do you stop the Big Six?" This is in reference to Racine Lutheran's High's penchant for a 6-man line.

The answer will begin to develop about 1:30 p.m. Saturday at kickoff time.

Milan Papala (5-10 and 225 pounds) and Al Greber (6-1, 170) will guard the flanks for Racine. Brian Jensen (6-5, 210) and Dave Back (6-3, 205) will be the tackles. The middle guards will be Bob Ratzburg (6-2, 250) and Carl Zimmerman (6-1, 235). The latter two are juniors, the others seniors.

Completing the Racine defense will be Matt Belan, Bob Kirk, Northern Peppers, Pat French, and Tom Layton. The size of these boys is back to regulation high school standards.

A Scoring Threat

French is also the quarterback whose specialty is the rollout option on a pro T formation. He throws well on the run and is a scoring threat despite his lack of size at 5-7, 140 pounds. This lineup thus shows seven seniors, three juniors, and one sophomore.

Racine has edged Union Grove, 13-6, and hammered little Clinton, 44-0. This will be Racine's first Midwest Prep conference game.

Although the Foxes have had spirited workouts all week, there is a note of gloom on the squad due to the loss of running back Rod Huebner for the year. Huebner sustained a severe concussion in the Wayland game.

Present plans indicate Ron Rhan will open at fullback with sophomore Clay Gardiner starting his first game at halfback. Gardiner has been doing a fine job on the kickoff team and so is being moved up to the first team offensive unit. He is a 5-9, 140-pound sophomore.

Still needed to replace Hueb-ner on the defensive team will be an outside linebacker. Likely candidates are juniors Tom Ullrich and Brock Woods, both defensive backs. Rahn and Dan Haase, both seniors, are the other linebackers.

Another serious problem for head coach Dave Umms is a sputtering offensive unit. John Hannemann has been running well, but the passing attack has suffered. However, even when soundly beaten at Wayland, Foxes never game up. In fact the team's only TD was tallied in the waning minutes of the game.

The combination of quarterback Bob Mindel to end Kurt Froge produced the score.

Mindel began to hit end Gary Depner late in the game including two key pass plays on the scoring drive.

Knee Operation To Sideline Snell For 6-8 Weeks
NEW YORK (AP) — Pullback Matt Snell of the New York foot- ball Jets will undergo surgery on his left knee Friday and will be lost to the team for between six to eight weeks.

Making the announcement Thursday, the Jets said his place on the squad probably will be taken by Billie Joe, who will be brought up from the taxi squad. However, no action is expected until just before game time Sunday, when the Jets open at Shea Stadium against Miami.

Ohio State Makes Debut

6 Big 10 Clubs Are Underdogs

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

CHICAGO (AP) — The odds-makers have put an evil eye on Big Ten football teams Saturday, making six of them underdogs in a 10-game schedule against outside foes.

Seeking second victories to re-main on the undefeated list are Northwestern, host to Missouri; Indiana, entertaining Kansas; tenth-ranked Purdue, awaiting the visit of top-ranked Notre Dame; Michigan, invading Cal-ifornia; Minnesota, traveling to No. 7 Nebraska, and Iowa, wel-coming Oregon State.

Trying to bounce back after opening losses are Michigan State, at home to No. 2 South-ern California; Illinois, cele-brating a home opener "Loyal-ty Day" against Pittsburgh, and Wisconsin, host to Arizona State.

Ohio State makes its season debut with a home encounter against Arizona, untested since losing to Wyoming 36-17 two weeks ago. Buckeye Coach Woody Hayes will be launching his 17th campaign and in that time has lost only two openers.

Ready for Duty
Quarterback Bob Naponic, who suffered a concussion in a 14-0 loss to Florida, is ready for full duty for Illinois. The Illini are ruled a 17-point pick over Pitt, smashed 40-8 by UCLA. Indiana, whose Terry Gonso ran and passed for 237 yards in a 12-10 triumph over Kentucky, is a touchdown favorite to repel Kansas, a 21-20 loser to Stan- ford.

Oregon State, with decisions over Stanford and Arizona State, is a three-point choice over the Iowa Hawkeyes, whose Ed Podolak passed and ran for a 24-9 victory over Texas Chris- tian.

Notre Dame is 14 points up on Purdue in what should be a fine quarterbacking duel between Irish Terry Hanratty and Bob Griese's successor, sophomore Mike Phipps. Purdue got off to a 24-20 start over Texas A&M. Southern California, with ver- dicts over Washington State and Texas, is rated a touchdown edge over Michigan State Missouri, with a 21-0 opener over Southern Methodist, gets a five-point nod at Northwestern, a 12-7 upset-puller from Miami of Florida.

The odds-makers like Ohio State by 13 points over Arizona; Arizona State by three over Wis- consin, Michigan by seven over California on TV and Nebraska by 10 over Minnesota.

Arizona State has beaten San Jose State and lost to Oregon State. Wisconsin was trimmed by Washington 17-0 last week.

Long Arms Exemption

Dodd Seeks to Rem Stumbling Block to Firearms Bill Passage

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Thomas J. Dodd sought Thurs- day to remove what he called a major stumbling block to pas- sage of a firearms control bill — the opposition of sportsmen.

He proposed that states that do not want the restrictions on buying rifles and shotguns by mail order be allowed to pass legislation removing their resi- dents from such restrictions. There would be no exemption for handguns.

Dodd told the Senate his amendment "should remove the opposition of the sportsmen of our less populated midwestern states."

Dodd's bill, which he has been trying to get passed for years, would prohibit the interstate mail order sale of handguns, rifles and shotguns to individ- uals.

Dodd noted that at hearings on the bill witnesses from some states have said the mail order ban on rifles and shotguns would cause hardship on sports- men, ranchers and farmers whose primary access to the long arms is by mail order.

The legislatures of eight states have sent memorials to Congress opposing the gun bill mainly because of the inclusion of the long arms, he said.

The memorials came from Alabama, Alaska, Arkansas, Louisiana, Michigan, Montana, Oklahoma and Texas. In addi- tion, a petition of opposition came from Idaho citizens.

Dodd said rifles and shotguns were tools of the snip- city violence this sum- "Yet, there are doggedly maintain, w- disregard for the fac- rifle and shotgun are instruments of sport- hunters and that suc- are not abused by ou- elements," he said.

However, he said, total of 1,747 persons dered with rifles and "not to mention the long arms played in mer riots."

The Senate subcom- investigate juvenil- quency, which Dodd proved his bill last w- 4 vote and sent it t- Judiciary Committee.

Dodd said he was s- proposed amendme- subcommittee membe- sideration.

Notre Dame Faces 10th-Rated Purdue

Houston Favored Heavily Over Wake Forest Gridders Tonight

By BEN OLAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Houston Cougars will be seeking to advance further in the national rankings while the Miami Hurricanes will be looking to reclaim a position among the rated teams in key games tonight that kick off another big college football weekend.

Houston, No. 3 in the latest Associated Press poll after its stunning 37-7 victory over Michigan State, takes on Wake Forest in the Astrodome. Miami, ranked eighth before being upset by Northwestern last week, plays Penn State in the Orange Bowl.

Saturday's action is highlighted by a meeting between top-ranked Notre Dame and 10th-rated Purdue on the Boilermakers' field. Second-place Southern California faces Michigan State in Lansing, Mich.

The Cougars are rated four touchdowns favorites to beat Wake Forest which lost its first two games to Duke and Clemson. It is the strongest role as favorites in Houston history and coach Bill Yeoman is trying to caution his charges against overconfidence.

Explosive Running

Houston, 2-0, again will depend on the explosive running of Warren McVea and the passing of Dick Woodall. McVea was named The Associated Press' back-of-the-week after rushing for 155 yards against Michigan State. Woodall chipped in with touchdown passes of 77 and 76 yards against the Spartans.

Coach Bill Tate of Wake Forest said his team's pass defense has been among his major disappointments. The opposition has completed 16 of 29 for 306 yards.

A crowd of about 50,000 is expected to witness what figures to be a high scoring game in the Orange Bowl. Penn State dropped a 23-22 decision to Navy last week. The Hurricanes moved the ball well in losing to Northwestern, but their attack bogged down with fumbles, interceptions plus an illegal pass.

Penn State will be without the services of tackle John Ebersole, a defensive regular. He suffered a knee sprain in the Navy game and will be sidelined for several weeks.

Western Michigan is at Brigham Young in another game tonight.

Purdue opened with a 24-20 triumph over Texas A&M last week. Notre Dame scored a 41-8 victory in its first game. The Irish captured the national championship last season.

Michigan State is determined to regain the prestige it lost in the Houston setback. However, Southern Cal comes off two impressive victories, 49-0 over Washington State and 17-13 over highly-regarded Texas.

In other games involving teams rated among the first 10, UCLA, No. 4, meets Washington State, Georgia, No. 5, plays Clemson, Nebraska, No. 7, takes on Minnesota, Texas, No. 8, plays Texas Tech, and Alabama, No. 9, goes against Southern Mississippi.

Sixth-ranked Colorado is not scheduled.

Menasha Wins To Keep Lead In Frosh Loop

Kaukauna Beats Roosevelt; Wilson And Madison Tie

Einstein	1	0	1
Madison	0	0	2
Kaukauna	2	1	9
Mann	2	1	0
Conant	1	1	0
Kimberly	1	2	0
Wilson	0	2	1
Roosevelt	0	3	0

Menasha's freshman football team stayed unbeaten with a 7-0 victory over Kimberly Thursday to retain sole possession of the Valley Frosh League lead.

In other games, Kaukauna beat Roosevelt, 20-0, for its second win in three starts; Neenah Mann whipped Conant, 20-6, also for its second triumph; and Madison played its second tie in as many games — 14-14 with Wilson.

The Menasha touchdown came late in the second period, when quarterback Gary Ganzel hit end Paul Stinski for a 36-yard pass. Jim O'Brien added the PAT on a run.

The junior Papermakers mustered one concrete threat. In the third period, Kimberly drove inside the Menasha 20-yard line but lost the ball on downs.

Kaukauna scored twice in the first period for a 13-0 lead, and latched on another TD in the second quarter. Tom Giordana tallied the first six-pointer, when he rambled five yards. Later, Carl Mueller hit Leon Franke with a 30-yard touchdown pass and Giordana converted on a run. Roger Ver Voort galloped 15 yards around end for the final TD and Giordana again ran for the PAT.

Mann took a 20-0 halftime lead. Mike Bouressa's 9-yard TD run came in the first frame. A pair of touchdown passes — one a 40-yard aerial from Tim Atchison to Bruce Alberg, and the other a 14-yard toss from Dave Groth to John Schulte — accounted for Mann's TDs in the second period.

Madison nearly came away with its first win, but a Wilson goal-line stand stopped a touchdown drive on the 1-foot line in the last minute of play.

Halfback Dan Gerrits, who rushed for 195 yards and scored all of his team's points, tallied first for Madison in the opening quarter when he gathered in a 65 yard pass from Scott Smith. However, Wilson's Scott Hootman raced 25 yards for a tying TD late in the same quarter.

Wilson went ahead in the second period, on Tim Reddy's 35-yard jaunt around end, only to have Gerrits come back with a 4-yard scoring run.

Gerrits ran for both Madison extra points, and Wilson's Mike Wallin also ran for two.

Vikings' Figi Leads State

Lawrence Also Top Ground Gaining Unit After One Tilt

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Gary Besek of Carroll leads all Wisconsin college passers and Steve Figi leads in rushing in this young football season.

Besek passed for 285 yards and five touchdowns in the Pioneers' opening win over Milton. Al Charnish of Platteville is second with 283.3 yards per game and Jim Osborn of Superior or ranks third with 213.5.

Figi carried 36 times for 146 yards in Lawrence's only game so far, a win over Coe. Mel Thake of Superior is second with a 130.5 yard average and Myles Strasser of Oshkosh is third with 123.5 yards per game.

Has 19 Catches

The top receiver is Terry Fredenberg, a Wisconsin-Milwaukee end. He has 19 catches, good for 255 yards and three touchdowns. Jim Hansen of Stevens Point has 14 catches for 250 yards and one TD and Bob Peck of Superior has 14 catches for 218 yards and three TDs.

The Pioneers have picked up 481 yards in one game, 355 of those passing for that lead too, and have allowed only 148 yards. Lawrence leads in rushing offense with 255 yards in one game.

Stevens Point has held its opponents to an average of 64.5 yards rushing in two games. Beloit held its only rival to 40 yards in the air.

Boys to Sign for Punt-Pass-Kick Test

KAUKAUNA — Registration for the "Punt-Pass-Kick" contest is underway at Coffey Motors and will continue through Oct. 11.

Boys ages 8 through 13 from Kaukauna, Little Chute, Combined Lakes or outlying area may register for competition. Local winners will advance to district competition.

Terrors Have 1 Volleyball Letterman

Appleton East and West, Kaukauna and Kimberly are competing in a new Fox Cities high school volleyball league.

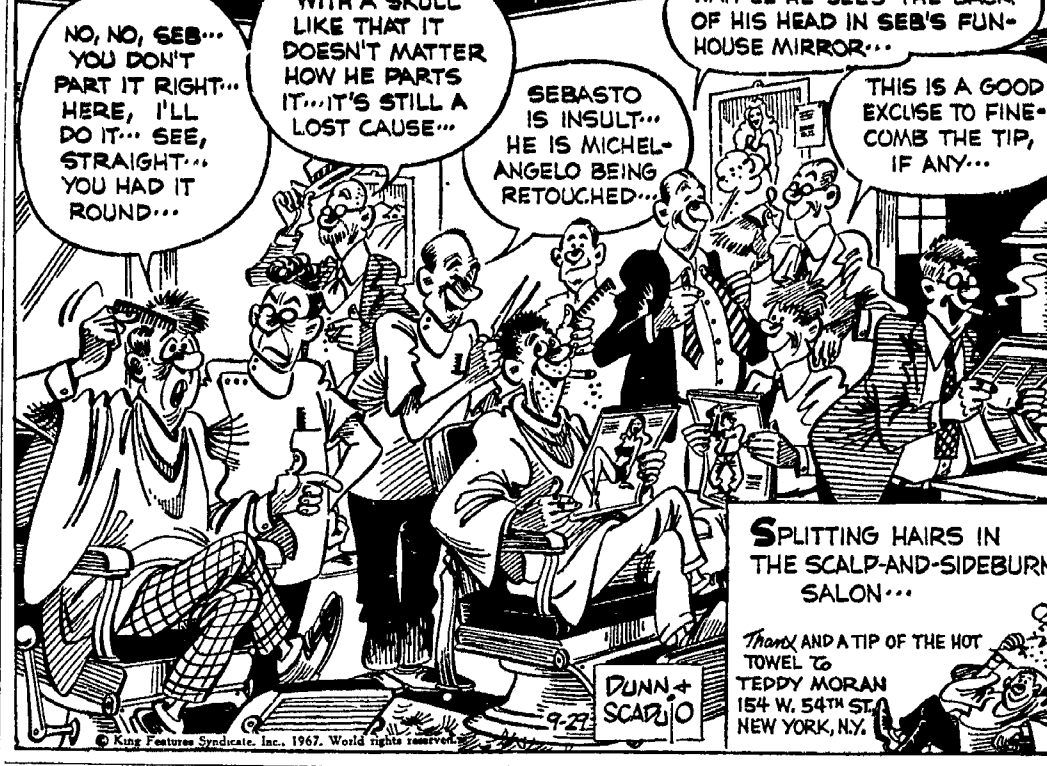

The teams will play a total of six matches, on a home-and-home basis.

Last year, the Jim Kissinger-coached AHS team posted a record of 36-6 (in games) and won several invitational meets. Kaukauna beat the Terrors in the regional tournament, and the Ghosts went on to compete in the state tourney.

Kissinger has one letterman — Capt. Craig Petros — on the current AHS-W team. Other starters in the Terrors' most recent match were Jim Gilbertson, Bill Roock, Mike Simon, Steve Risse and Bruce Petros. Among the other top candidates are Pat Latimer, Tom Lhost and Mark Schroeder.

This is the first time volleyball has been a fall sport on the WIAA agenda.

Rain Forces Postponement Of Title Bout

Benvenuti, Griffith Clash Rescheduled at New York Tonight

By MURRAY ROSE
NEW YORK (AP) — Rain washed out rosy hopes of a $400,000 gate Thursday and even threatened to force a second day's postponement of the return title fight tonight between middleweight champion Nino Benvenuti and Emile Griffith.

The rain, predicted by the weatherman, led the city much to the chagrin of the fighters, the promoters and thousands of Italians here from the old country for the outdoor 15-rounder in Shea Stadium.

It looked like more of the same today. The forecast was for rain during the day tapering off to occasional showers at night. Fight time is 10 p.m., EDT.

Saturday Afternoon

If a downpour forces another postponement, promoting Madison Square Garden will try to put on the show Saturday afternoon. The time would be 4 p.m. EDT.

Even Saturday isn't safe. The long range forecast was for showers that day ending in the morning.

The Garden had to schedule Saturday afternoon as a standby date, instead of Saturday night, because the park has to be made ready for the Miami-New York Jets pro football game Sunday.

If the fight has to be held Saturday afternoon, it will face formidable competition from other sports.

Race of Year

At the nearby Aqueduct track, Buckpasser, Damascus, Dr. Fager and Handsome Boy meet in the horse race of the year. This will be shown in New York on television along with college football and the Minnesota-Boston head-to-head clash in the boiling American League baseball pennant race.

Before the rains came Thursday afternoon, Harry Markson, the director of boxing for the Garden, said the advance sale indicated a gate of at least $350,000. He usually estimates on the conservative side. Others in the organization spoke of possibly $400,000 and more.

Now Markson would settle to get the fight out of the way tonight, even at a lesser gross. Postponements are costly and gates usually diminish.

The fighters, who weighed in Thursday morning and who will have to weigh in again today, said a one-day delay would make no difference in their fighting ability.

The Italian, heavier and taller, was a 6-5 favorite to retain the title. He was a 13-5 underdog when he outpointed Griffith, finishing with a strong spurt in the last five rounds. He was the boss most of the fight and said "I expect to be better this time."

Chiefs to Clash With Sheboygan

Manitowoc Wins

MANITOWOC — The Manitowoc Chiefs, who very likely need wins in all four remaining games in order to maintain hope for a divisional title, play host to Sheboygan in a Central States League Football game Saturday night.

Manitowoc has a 3-3 record and trails Northern Division leader West Allis (5-1) and runner-up Madison (4-1-1). Sheboygan brings a 1-5 record into the game.

School Cancels Games After Gridder Dies

Passaic, N.J. (AP) — The death of a 15-year-old football player during a game has brought the cancellation of his high school's football season.

Joh P. Korabianics of Clifton died Thursday morning after being injured Sept. 22 in the first game of the Passaic Collegiate School's season.

The school announced later Thursday it had canceled the remainder of its games.

The sophomore died in Valley Hospital, Ridgewood. He had never regained consciousness after collapsing on a flying tackle.

The youth had earned letters in three sports.

No cause of death was given officially Thursday, although hospital officials said he died of a respiratory condition.

Bauer and Hunter Only Members of Staff to Return

BALTIMORE (AP) — Hank Bauer—a tough ex-Marine who was twice named Manager of the Year but whose fortunes plunged when the world champion Baltimore Orioles nosedived from glory to seventh place—will be back in 1968.

Harry Dalton, the director of player personnel for the American League club, announced Thursday night that Bauer would return, but not three coaches: Sherm Lollar, bullpen coach, Harry Brecheen, pitching coach, and Gene Woodling, first base coach.

Returning for the 1968 season will be third base coach Billy Hunter.

The announcement ended speculation in some quarters that Bauer would be replaced because of the club's poor showing during the current season.

Bauer said the three coaches "were real good friends of mine and I think all three of them did a good job."

"We thought there was a change necessary so we made it," said Bauer.

"We've been talking about a number of people as replacements," but he said he would not disclose who.

Bauer was signed after last season for a contract through 1968 at $50,000 a year.

The Orioles are in seventh place, 16½ games out of first. They won the American League pennant by nine games last year and swept four straight from the Los Angeles Dodgers in the World Series.

Yesterday's Stars

PITCHING—Jim Maloney, Reds, hurled a four-hit shutout over Atlanta, striking out 12 as Cincinnati blasted Atlanta 8-0.

Finishing in order for the Bulldogs were Dan Close, Bill Reinert, Todd Huber, Jeff Court, Tony Raess and Chuck Larson.

Team Hits Well There

Twins Happy Last Two Road Games Will be in Boston's Fenway Park

MINNEAPOLIS-ST. PAUL (AP)—If Minnesota's three top power hitters, Harmon Killebrew, Bob Allison and Tony Oliva, had their pick of which American League park they'd most like to take their swings—other than their own park here—it likely would be Boston's Fenway Park.

That just happens to be where the Twins will try to wrap up their second American League pennant in three years this weekend, meeting the Red Sox in a two-game season-ending series.

"As long as we have to play the last two on the road," Allison said, "I think we'd just as soon they be at Fenway. I'm sort of looking forward to seeing that left field wall again."

"I think we're hitting about as well as we have all year right now, and we always hit pretty good in Fenway."

Meet Washington

In the only other game involving the four pennant contenders tonight, Chicago is at home to Washington. The White Sox are right down at the end of the stick; one more defeat and their chances of even tying for the pennant are gone.

Minnesota, in first place by a game, and Boston, tied with Detroit for second, get a second straight day of rest before opening their climactic two-game set in Boston Saturday.

There was baseball action Thursday, all in the National League where Philadelphia edged San Francisco 2-1, Cincinnati swept a doubleheader from Atlanta 8-0 and 9-1 and Los Angeles beat New York 3-0. St. Louis and Chicago were rained out.

McLain, whose story about injuring his foot when he stood up after it fell asleep has been greeted with disbelief in some quarters, showed up at Tiger Stadium Thursday, a forlorn figure.

"I know the manager is sore at me," the 17-game winner said, "but what can I do. Believe me, nobody feels more ridiculous about this thing than I do. All I want is a chance to pitch. I think I can still help this club."

"If Denny can pitch," said Smith, "I'll probably put him in the bullpen."

Chicago Manager Eddie Stanky, meanwhile, remained tight-lipped about the doubleheader loss to Kansas City Wednesday that reduced the White Sox' pennant chances to only the possibility of a tie.

"All we can do is win three straight and pray," Stanky said when the team returned home from Kansas City. The reception committee at the airport consisted of the wives of 10 players and two fans.

Reliever Dick Farrell got Willie Mays to ground into a double play with the bases loaded in the ninth, saving the Phillies' victory over the Giants.

Jim Maloney shut out the Braves on four hits in the opener, striking out 12, and Sammy Ellis scattered seven hits in the nightcap in the Reds' doubleheader victory.

Claude Osteen held the Mets to five hits and tripled in two runs to break a scoreless tie in the seventh inning. The game was delayed by rain in the ninth inning, only the second time rain has affected a Dodger game in Los Angeles.

East and West JV '11s' Clash

The Junior Terrors last to teams of Appleton East and West High Schools will clash at 9:30 a.m. Saturday on Witte Field.

Both teams lost their first two encounters.

The Junior Terrors lost of Oshkosh (39-0) and Green Bay East (27-0). The Junior Patriots lost to Green Bay West (32-14) and Preble (26-0). Pete Kliefoth has scored the only two East touchdowns, while Doug Chevalier kicked the two extra points.

Dr. Molner
Even when they do, many are careless.

Others think that because a liquid, cream or chemical is unpleasant-tasting to an adult, small children will avoid it, too. That isn't so.

If they will swallow lye — and they do — they obviously will swallow anything that catches their notice: gasoline, ammonia, bleach, ant poison, lighter fluid, worm medicine, deodorants, shampoo, perfume, alcohol, paint, fertilizers, powders and tablets to make pretty colors in the fireplace, plant food, glues and cements. And others.

All of the above already have poisoned many children. Some have hospitalized thousands, nearly all have killed at least some.

So another rule for safety is to understand baby and child psychology, a baby or toddler's unsophisticated sense of taste, and a baby's willingness to put anything and everything into his mouth.

Just keeping things in a bottle isn't enough. The bottle has to be absolutely out of reach. Small children can climb — and do.

Ignorance and carelessness and underestimating the risk are the most common causes of poisoning.

But there are some even worse ones, if not common.

I myself was utterly shocked at realizing, gradually, that too many infants and children were reaching poison centers, not because they had been inquisitively meddling, but because their own mothers poisoned them with too much aspirin—usually “trying to get the fever down.”

How many times do we have to say it? Aspirin is the most dangerous single poison in the modern home. Everybody has it!

There are figures on how much aspirin is dangerous — such as “one grain per pound of body weight,” meaning that much will make a child ill but not kill him. But I decline to say how many tablets is “safe.” A

Chilton Boy, 8, Hurt in Fall on Playground

CHILTON — Stephen Noss, 8, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Noss, suffered a severe concussion when he fell off a slide Wednesday afternoon on the St. Mary School playground.

The youngster was reportedly scuffling with another boy at the top of the slide when he lost his balance and fell about 12 feet to the pavement.

He was taken to Calumet Memorial Hospital where his condition is listed as “good.”

Sentencing Set for Rural Oneida Man

Sentencing was set for the morning of Oct. 3 Wednesday for Edwin Kazik, 24, route 1, Oneida, after he pleaded no contest and was found guilty of taking and driving a truck without the owner's consent the morning of Sept. 14.

Kazik, who was arrested following investigation by Outagamie County police, was sent to jail without bond until time of sentencing. He entered the plea after being bound over to the felony branch of Outagamie County court. He waived preliminary hearing. Kazik had a court-appointed attorney.

Police said he took a large dump truck, owned by MRK Construction Co., of Seymour. He struck a milk house, a mailbox, and a culvert before tipping the vehicle over about 1 a.m. Sept. 14 on County Trunk C, 1½ miles south of Seymour.

Kazik was injured in the accident.

will be at first to believe their own ears and eyes, are coming to believe that some children are being poisoned deliberately.

One told me, “I can't help feeling that some cases are in the same category as ‘battered babies.’”

It was only a dozen years ago that investigators proved that some babies are whipped, beaten, burned, starved, sometimes even killed, by parents or other adults.

It is monstrous, depraved, but it has happened often enough so special laws are being put into effect to deal with this hideous crime.

The evidence of deliberate poisoning is that from time to time parents blandly deny having had aspirin (or other poison) in the house, even in the face of laboratory evidence that an infant has been poisoned with it. It is the same attitude, the same blank denial that the baby-beaters used to get away with: “He must have fallen down,” or “He must have burned himself.” Now it is poison.

Nine Rules For Poison Safety

1 — Special “childproof” caps for containers are fine as far as they go — but they aren't much good if the caps aren't tightly in place. Likewise, it is scarcely feasible to have safety caps on all the multitude of potential household poisons.

2 — True safety depends on knowing how real the danger is, and keeping dangerous substances in locked or otherwise secure places where children can't reach them. Remember that children can and do climb on chairs, footstools or tables to reach cupboards. A double latch — so it takes both hands to open a cupboard or closet — may help.

3 — Treat EVERY medication as potentially poisonous, because it usually is if improperly used. Even vitamin-mineral capsules.

4 — Don't dose a baby or child with any medicine, even aspirin, unless you KNOW the proper dose. What is correct for an adult can be toxic for a child. So, ASK YOUR DOCTOR, who knows the proper amounts and can gauge the child's condition.

5 — Never use milk, pop or other bottles for anything but their intended contents. Dispose of anything in unlabeled bottles or containers.

6 — Discard old medicines. Do NOT throw in the alley or trash can. Flush such materials down a drain.

7 — NEVER pretend that medicine is “candy.”

8 — Keep all medicine ONLY in a medicine chest.

9 — Check kitchen, basement, garage, tool shed, ALL parts of the household for possible poisons.

Hemorrhoids can be cured! If troubled with fissures, fistulas, itching and other rectal problems, write to Dr. Molner in care of The Post-Crescent requesting a copy of the booklet, “The Real Cure For Hemorrhoids,” enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Enrollment Swells to 2,600 For 7th Annual Field Course At Apple Hill Farms Site

More than 2,600 sixth grade pupils in Outagamie County are expected to attend the five-day conservation field days school at the Apple Hill Farms north of Appleton.

This is almost 600 more than attended last year and accounts for the largest gain in any single year since the program was started under the direction of former 4-H agent Courtney Schwertz seven years ago.

Russell Luckow, Outagamie

County agricultural agent, is chairman of the school this year. Pupils from 62 public and parochial schools in the county have been invited. Students from the Outagamie County Teachers' College at Kaukauna also will attend.

Because of the sharp influx in pupils, Luckow said the agent-instructors would meet at 9 a.m. Monday to set up the eight field stations.

The class schedule has been advanced and will begin at 12:15 p.m. Monday. The morning sessions will be from 8:30 to 11:15 a.m. and the afternoons, 12:15 to 3 p.m. Classes will continue through Friday. Rain dates will be Oct. 9-10.

Staff Listed

Time for pupils from each school to attend the conservation course will be announced later. Pupils are given worksheets which detail things they are shown in the field. They often form the basis of further classroom study.

Among those who will be staffing the teaching stations at various times will be Dennis Reinert, Green Bay, and Harry Porter, Appleton, Wisconsin Conservation Department (WCD) foresters; Jerry Reickhoff and Harold Steinke from the WCD area office at Oshkosh; Jack Kunath and Dale Morey, game wardens at Clintonville and Appleton, respectively; Mrs. C. P. Williams, Appleton; James Suehring and Robert Gregurich, Appleton Farmers Home Administration office; Joseph Rickert, county office manager for the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service; Leonard Warner and Oliver Lerum, Appleton Vocational School; Vern Geiger and Don Powers, county soil conservationists, and Luckow, William Shaw and Garry Blomberg, county extension agents.

Michael Onan Heads Amherst FFA Chapter

AMHERST — Michael Onan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Onan, is the new president of the Amherst Chapter, Future Farmers of America.

Other new officers are Miron Suski, vice president; Tom Ward, secretary; Tony Glodowsky, treasurer; Fred Maves, reporter, and Paul Onan, sentinel.

Lack of Price May Prompt Milk Shortage

Nelson Asks Freeman For 90 Per Cent Of Parity Rates

WASHINGTON (AP)—Failure to provide more income for dairy farmers could lead to milk shortages, Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., said today.

In a letter to Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman, Nelson urged restoration of the support price for manufacturing milk to 90 per cent of parity and suggested national hearings to consider raising fluid milk prices.

Prices, for manufacturing milk, used for cheese, butter and dried milk, have lingered below $4 per hundred weight for several months, Nelson said.

At 90 per cent of parity, he said, farmers would receive about $4.25 per hundredweight—nine cents a quart. Fluid milk is earmarked for bottled milk.

"Every available economic indicator points to the critical need for improving milk prices for our dairy farmers," Nelson said.

Wisconsin dairy farmers are receiving 25 cents less than they did a year ago for a hundred pounds of milk, he said.

"If we fail to improve dairy farm income now, the sources of milk which we are depending upon to feed the American families of the future will be bone-dry when we need them in a decade or so."

Opportunity Awaiting Youth

Work of youth through 4-H programs is being honored during National 4-H Club Week Sept. 30 to Oct. 7. The theme is "A World of Opportunity."

Four-H programs provide opportunity for experiences which help develop mature behavior all through life. How badly this is needed has been shown many times this past summer in America by acts completely lacking in maturity and responsibility by people of all ages.

The world of opportunity in 4-H cannot stop riots. It can, however, prevent the cause of riots when properly provided to youth nine to 19 years old.

Four-H isn't magic. It doesn't give material things of worldly goods and wealth. It is not a

Steiger Backs 9 Point Ethics Code for House

Principles for House Members Suggested During Testimony

WASHINGTON — Rep. William A. Steiger, R-Oshkosh, has supported a nine-point set of measures to establish and enforce standards of ethics for members of the House of Representatives, its officers and employees.

During testimony before the House standards of conduct committee, Steiger recommended creating a code of ethics; setting forth requirements that holdings in government regulated businesses, income, gifts and honorariums be disclosed; application of the requirements to officials with an income over a set minimum; assignment of the ethics committee to receive disclosure reports from individuals;

Insurance that the reports would be open to public inspection; empowering the committee to investigate formal complaints of violations; giving the committee the job of recommending action on violations to the house; requiring the committee to review the reports to determine whether they comply with the regulations, and applying the rules to persons filing as candidates for house seats as well as members in office.

Steiger testified before the committee last week and reported his views Wednesday in a regular release to newspapers in the Sixth District.

Kickoff Meeting for Campaign Workers Scheduled Monday

NEW LONDON — United Fund of New London, Inc. will open its drive toward a $13,700 goal with a kickoff meeting of campaign workers at 8 p.m. Monday at the First State Bank. Materials will be distributed and details of the drive will be explained to all volunteer workers and chairmen at the session. M. A. Brunner, UF president, will give a short talk. Explaining the objective and functions of their committees will be Wallace Gruening, payroll deduction; Don Anderson, advanced gifts; William Borchart, business and professional; and James Mergy, house-to-house.

Catvass Homes

The house-to-house campaign is to begin Oct. 16 after the first three committees have finished their solicitations. General chairman for this year's campaign is Alfred Weeden, a teacher at guidance director in the New London school system. Brunner announced today that Mrs. John Trambauer has been named to the UF board of directors to replace Mrs. Leo Byrznyski as the Town of Mukwa representative.

Twelve local, county, state and national organizations will share in the money raised by the United Fund drive.

Scope of Low-Rent Housing To be Defined at New London

Developers Must Submit Plans To Local Authority by Monday

NEW LONDON — Questions should be answered about the 120-unit low rental housing project for the elderly Monday when the New London Housing Authority (NLHA) receives proposals for the project from interested developers.

Developers have until 10 a.m. Monday to submit working sketches, site proposals, building design, cost estimates and other vital information on the low rental development. The brochures will be used by NLHA in determining which developer will be selected to oversee the city's "turn-key" project.

Proposals, basically, will be on a 120-unit development for the elderly on a site acquired by the developer and acceptable to the local authority.

Outline Plans

Brochures must describe plans for 120 units for the elderly — 90 units for single occupancy and 30 for double occupancy, all rooms to be designed to meet maximum standards established by the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD); one unit, three-bedroom facility, for the custodian; appropriate community recreational facility, including institutional-type stove, sink, cupboards, refrigerator and other equipment. Appointed to the buildings and grounds committee were Dr. L. C. Bate, Joe Peeters and Kirchner; welfare and personnel, Robert Stieg, Dr. Peter Oberhauser and Peeters; curriculum, Dr. Harry Caskey, Oberhauser and Kirchner; public relations, Mrs. George McCauley, Caskey and Oberhauser; and purchasing and inventory, Bate, Stieg and Mrs. McCauley.

Due to a conflict in dates with the university extension course being offered the five Tuesday nights during October, the board certified treasurer Stieg to use the safety deposit box keys.

Mrs. Glenn Kluth, Title I coordinator, reported on the Title I program offered at the Clintonville schools (city-wide). One hundred-sixteen students participated during the regular school year and 135 during the summer. She gave examples of the progress in the reading program, showing the IQ's of the students and how the program helped them improve.

Regional Meeting Peeters and Dr. Caskey reported on the Wisconsin Association of School Board's regional meeting they attended recently at Pulaski. The main topics discussed had concerned school board-employee negotiations and new legislation which was being adopted.

Supt. K. O. Rawson reported on the state Superintendents' Annual Conference held last week at Madison. "Leadership for Change" was the theme of the conference.

The annual dinner for new teachers and their spouses will be Monday night at the Riverside Golf clubhouse, it was announced.

Caroline Lutherans Plan Organ Dedication MARION — Mrs. M. Davis, Green Bay, will present an organ recital at 8 p.m. Sunday at Zion Lutheran Church, Caroline. The new organ, which was recently purchased and installed, will be dedicated during the program.

Yule Greetings To be Mailed To Servicemen SHIOCTON — Names and addresses of area servicemen have been requested by the American Legion Auxiliary for its third annual project to send Christmas greetings.

Lists may be submitted at the auxiliary meeting Tuesday evening or given to Mrs. George Kennedy, unit secretary, or Mrs. Victor Conrad and Mrs. Richard Nelson, rehabilitation chairman.

Highlighting Tuesday's meeting will be the education and scholarship program with plans to participate in National Education Week. Mrs. Marilyn Schwandt is chairman.

Mrs. Elmer Warning will assist the school nurse, Mrs. Gertrude Nagel, in the visual aid testing at the school.

Stockbridge School Board Accepts Oil Bid

Also Approves Purchase of Radio for Weather Warning

STOCKBRIDGE — The fuel oil bid of Raymond Lisowe Oil Company, Stockbridge, for 10.85 cents a gallon was accepted by the board of education here Wednesday night. It was the only bid received.

Authorization was given for the purchase of draperies for the kindergarten, elementary and home economics departments and filing cabinets for the elementary, upper elementary and English rooms.

In order to be informed on emergency weather warnings Paul Dobias, supervising principal, received permission to buy a transistor radio.

Nine boys attending the Cooperative Vocational program in Brillion this year will be transported in the school vehicle. A saving on bus transportation cost is expected to be about $700.

The board was informed of the Cooperative Educational Service Agency (CESA) 10 Board of Control meeting to be held here at 8 p.m. Oct. 11. All school districts in the agency were asked recently to submit invitations to the CESA group, so school boards can be informed on its functions.

Man Jailed For Reckless Use of Gun

WAUPACA — Earl E. Mohme, 28, route 1, New London, a former Milwaukee resident, was sentenced to 30 days in the county jail Thursday, when he appeared in Municipal Justice Court and pleaded guilty to a charge of reckless use of firearms.

Mohme was arrested by Sheriff William Mork Wednesday afternoon after Mohme threatened his wife with a gun at the rural New London farmhouse at which the couple was staying.

Mohme, who also had appeared in Waupaca County Court Tuesday, was placed on probation for two years after he and a companion pleaded guilty to several charges of issuing worthless checks. He had been released from jail approximately 24 hours prior to his second arrest.

Major hospital equipment also has been donated by the women, including a specialized type incubator, a cardiac monitor, an electro surgical unit and many other items for therapy use.

Supplementing the smorgasbord are annual bake sales, summer band concerts, rummage sales, holiday bazaars, Christmas holiday dances, and annual pop concerts. These events are staged at various locations throughout the county.

Saturday's smorgasbord, being held in the high school gym here, from 4 to 8 p.m. under the chairmanship of Mrs. Lyle Hein and Mrs. Willard Franz, Hilbert, has been in the making all week, with many hours of planning spaced over months.

Chairmen appointed to provide various portions of the meal have been working in their homes with committee women to produce the fare which they hope will bring them 1,000 diners.

Originally the women provided baked dishes and dessert for the smorgasbords, but in later years the organization purchases the ingredients, with the exception of the desserts which the women donate, while others donate cash to help defray expenses.

A bake sale also will be conducted at the smorgasbord.

Aid for Hospital

Smorgasbord Has Raised $25,627

HILBERT — When Calumet Memorial Hospital Auxiliary members serve their annual smorgasbord here Saturday, they will be embarking on their second decade of similar fund raising events.

The smorgasbord has been prime source of the organization's money-making campaigns, producing the major portion of the $25,627 given to the hospital during the last 10 years. The first smorgasbord was staged in May, 1956, two months before the hospital was dedicated.

Of the total figure, $10,000 went for the building expansion. Pledged in 1962 the energetic women, had fulfilled $6,000 of their promise by the next year. The final $1,000 was given at the group's 10th birthday anniversary last year.

Equipment Donated Major hospital equipment also has been donated by the women, including a specialized type incubator, a cardiac monitor, an electro surgical unit and many other items for therapy use.

Increase of $8,933,730 Over 1966

CHILTON — Recommended equalized valuation of Calumet County, as set by the Wisconsin Department of Taxation, is $164,504,930, an increase of $8,933,730 over last year's total.

Property in villages and cities was valued at $83,392,820 an increase of $6,517,220 over last year, while property in the nine towns has a total value of $81,112,110, an increase of $2,416,510.

Total real estate values were listed at $136,377,500 and personal property assessments at $28,127,430.

Last year's total valuation was $155,571,200.

Kiel Decreases All cities, except for that portion of Kiel located in the county showed increases over a year ago.

Total value of the five cities was set at $76,572,710, with Brillion showing the largest increase of $2,283,600 for a valuation of $19,096,700. New Holstein's increase of $2,129,750 brought the valuation to $23,309,950. It leads Calumet County cities.

Curiosity Aroused on Sunday

Neighbors Unfold Pathetic Drama Of Frail Woman With Shopping Bag

BY WILLIAM C. CAREY

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

The pathetic story of the frail-looking, old woman with the black shopping bag began unfolding Thursday in the 300 block of N. Division Street.

Neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. George Schmidt related how only their curiosity had been aroused Sunday.

But things were different Thursday.

They told of sighting 80-year-old Marie Schmidt — clutching the floral print shopping bag with the wooden handle — as she made repeated trips to and from her home at 319 N. Division St. during the day Sunday.

Neighbors Wonder "We wondered where Mrs. Schmidt was doing all that shopping," commented Joseph Portmann, 403 N. Division St.

Portmann, who works at Foremost Dairies, said he and his wife saw the grey-haired woman attired in an ankle-length dress, make at least three trips in a northerly direction on Division Street.

"I saw Mrs. Schmidt leaving the house a couple of times with that shopping bag at her side," Portmann said. "Later in the day my wife noticed her again."

Others residing in the block, who described the elderly woman as "always acting somewhat odd and not neighborly," also recalled Mrs. Schmidt appeared to be unusually active Sunday and Monday.

The last time they saw Schmidt, a retired contractor, outside, was about two weeks ago. He appeared to be ailing and had difficulty walking in the back yard.

Godfrey Belair and his wife, who resided at 319 1/2 N. Division St., rented the upstairs apartment from the Schmidts.

Wife Shook "My wife was really shook up when I got home from work last night and saw police all around the place," remarked Belair, who said they lived above the Schmidts for the past three years.

"They were odd people, but we got along with them as well as expected," Belair said. "I know more than what I can tell you," Belair added,

Belair said he last saw Schmidt two weeks ago Sunday when he had to go to the basement to shut off the water because he was repairing some faucets in the upstairs apartment.

"Schmidt looked bad," Belair commented, "his health had been gradually failing over the past year or so."

Belair told of hearing strange sounds emanating last week from the Schmidt apartment below and thought the 84-year-old man may have slipped and fell on the floor.

"One thing I can say — we are sure glad this is all over with and they have found her and someone else is not running around loose," Belair said.

Remain Upstairs A carpenter, Belair has been working on the Treasure Island store addition, but didn't go to work today. "I didn't get a wink of sleep last night and neither did my wife," he said.

Mr. and Mrs. Belair remained upstairs during the search through the early hours of the morning and were still there at 11 a.m. as a steady flow of traffic converged on the area, along with hundreds of curious on foot.

Louie Saglauer, 327 N. Division St., a retired Riverside Paper Co. employee, said he used to talk to Schmidt "years ago but in the last 10 years he didn't say much to anybody."

Saglauer, who lives just north of the Schmidt residence, said although Mrs. Schmidt appeared to be frail, at one time she had been a strong-looking woman.

He, too, saw Mrs. Schmidt take walks Sunday with the shopping bag but thought nothing of it.

Dug in Garden Saglauer and other neighbors said Mrs. Schmidt spent a lot of time in the back yard and her garden. "She was there digging most of the day Monday," Saglauer said.

Another neighbor, Mrs. Larry Behrent, 419 N. Division St., said she knew Mrs. Schmidt had been in and out of her house quite a few times since Sunday.

"I know she was taking in her paper because my boy is her carrier boy," Mrs. Behrent said.

Jim Behrent, age 15, told his mother the paper was gone every day when he made his deliveries.

"He usually takes note when people leave papers on the porch when they go away," Mrs. Behrent said.

Mrs. Verna Price, 505 N. Division St., a widow, was standing next to the Saglauer residence with friends. Looking over at the Schmidt house, she remarked, "Who would think anything like this would ever happen in Appleton?"

"It goes to show that anything can happen anywhere today," reflected an unidentified housewife, who said all the people in the neighborhood were relieved.

"Now we can let our young children play outside again," she commented.

All the neighbors said Mr. and Mrs. Schmidt never had

College Night Scheduled at Waupaca High

Parents, Students Invited to Confer With Educators

WAUPACA — A college night program, sponsored by Waupaca County schools is scheduled Oct. 16 at the high school here.

Sponsoring schools are New London, Clintonville, Manawa, Weyauwega and Waupaca. Other schools invited to take part in the program are Iola-Scandinavia, Amherst, Wautoma, Hortonville, Almond and Wild Rose.

The annual program is designed to give high school juniors and seniors, and their parents an opportunity to learn about post-high school study at state colleges and universities.

Students and parents will have an opportunity to attend some separate counseling sessions. Roman P. Danielsen, guidance director at Waupaca High School, said.

Counsel Sessions
A general assembly in the gymnasium will start at 7:15 preceding three session periods with admissions counselors of various schools.

Counselors are expected from the University of Wisconsin at Madison and Milwaukee; university centers; each of the state universities except Superior and Platteville; vocational and technical institutes at Appleton, Oshkosh and Neenah, including apprenticeships; Theda Clark School of Nursing, Lawrence University, Carroll College, Ripon College, St. Norbert College, Milwaukee School of Engineering, Spencerian College, Metropolitan School of Automation, Manpower Business Training Institute, Madison Business College, Accredited School of Beauty Culture and all branches of the Armed Services.

This program and the career night program, also held each year, are directed by the high school guidance service departments of the five sponsoring high schools and are rotated among schools, Danielsen said. The career night program is planned Nov. 7 at Clintonville Senior High School.

Holy Name To Sponsor Breakfast

HILBERT — The Holy Name Society of St. Mary Catholic Church will sponsor a breakfast for members of the Christian Mothers Society after their mother-daughter corporate communion at the 9 a.m. Sunday mass.

The Rev. John Schmitt, pastor, will initiate five new members into the society.

Florence Woelfel, Chilton, director of Calumet County Department of Public Welfare, will discuss teen-age problems at the breakfast.

Holy Name Society members in charge of arrangements are Donald Richart, Edward Koehler, Sylvester Henseler, Albin Endries, Terry Albers, Gary Wiesbeck, Kurtis Koehler, Clifford Schaffer, Phillip Gehl, Mark Gehl, Harold Sippel and Duane Sweeney.

Rotary Award Given By Club at Marion

MARION — Emory Rogers was presented with the Rotary Foundation Award on behalf of the local Club, when it met Tuesday.

Tom Schider, Ken Robenolt, Emory Rogers and Doug Mayne reported on the leadership forum they attended at Iron Mountain last Saturday.

Mike McInnis reported on his Rotary sponsored week at Badger Boys State last June and also told of the student council activities.

Gresham, With an 18-0 season mark, won the grand championship of the Badger Amateur Baseball Association by beating Clintonville 4-1. This was their third win in four appearances in the grand championships. Front row from left are Pete Pleshek, Larry

85 at Brillion Session for School Boards

Discussion of Salary Negotiations Heads Agenda

BRILLION — About 85 school personnel attended discussions of school board-school employee negotiations at the regional Wisconsin Association of School Boards (WASB) meeting here recently.

Included in the program was a report by George Tipler, Winneton, on new legislation-current issues.

Attending were district administrators, area board members, school business officials, custodians, and representatives of the Cooperative Educational Service Agency. This session is one of 16 regional meetings being conducted by WASB Sept. 18 to Oct. 19.

A custodian clinic was conducted by Myron Huth, business manager of the Kimberly Public Schools. Custodians reviewed school lighting problems through Public Service Corporation representative D. E. Madden's presentation, "Lights On." Tom Garrow, Brillion High School student, Tom McDonough, Reedsville High School teacher, and Darrel Ffrick, principal of Kiel Public Schools, presented a panel discussion, "A Personal Approach to School Maintenance Work."

"High School Vocational Education on the Move" was discussed by Robert Ristau of the State Department of Public Instruction. Harry Drier, coordinator of the Brillion Cooperative Vocational School, explained how the pilot program began, and headed a panel discussion group of Don Hepler, Brillion Iron Works, Inc., David Boettcher, former student, and Gaylord Unbehaun, superintendent of the Brillion Public Schools. The latter three voiced viewpoints on the vocational school from an industrialist, student-worker, and supervisor's angle, respectively.

Caroline Plans First UF Appeal

MARION — Caroline will launch its first United Fund drive in conjunction with Marion.

Although tied in with the Marion appeal, Caroline will have special allocations for Shawano County Red Cross and retarded children's organizations.

A total of 82 Caroline homes and the business district will be canvassed by volunteers. Mrs. Stanley Buss, who was chairman of the Marion Woman's Club committee which promoted the United Fund in Marion, will head the drive.

They said the Schmidts had another boarder living with them until about a year ago when he went to King to reside.

"He was a nice man and came back here some months ago to visit," commented Saglauer.

Built Garages

Saglauer said Schmidt built two garages about 10 years ago, one for himself and the other for Saglauer.

The Schmidts reportedly got rid of their old black car about six years ago.

Saglauer also told of how Mrs. Schmidt threw what appeared to be a large bone onto his property over the weekend, but then disappeared.

"She was digging in her garden and almost fell over the fence the other day," he added.

Saglauer and others said that years ago Schmidt had been "a real friendly man, but suddenly changed."

They said his wife "never would bid you the time of day."

None of the neighbors could remember hearing any unusual sounds from the Schmidt residence in recent days.

But they did say that the basement light had been burning for several nights.

Rudy Breitung, 313 N. Division St., who lives immediately ly south of the Schmidt home, said, "I'm so shocked I don't know what to say or not to say."

He said the Schmidts had purchased the house about 15 years ago and that often Mrs. Schmidt would become belligerent and appeared to want to argue with Breitung's late wife.

Lights Burning

"I knew there was something going on in the basement next door because I could see the lights still burning early in the morning," Breitung said.

Breitung told how his sister-in-law, Mrs. Jennie Buchert, tried to make conversation with Mrs. Schmidt when she saw her near the house last week, remarking that she had nice looking flowers and tomatoes in her garden.

"Monday and Tuesday morning of this week we had small bouquets of flowers at our rear door," Breitung disclosed.

Ald. Al Stoegebauer (4th) said he often went door-to-door but never was able to talk to Mr. and Mrs. Schmidt.

And there was a report today that two women at the scene where a part of a body was found in a College Avenue ravine Monday morning told police of seeing a woman bearing Mrs. Schmidt's description in the crowd and walking through the alley where an extensive police investigation was underway.
